

HOOPER ARRIVES IN CAPITAL AFTER MONTH IN FLORIDA

To Engage Immediately in Conferences Which Will Continue Up to Eve of Inauguration.

TO MEET LEADERS AT HIS RESIDENCE
Expected to Consult With Men He Will Appoint to Cabinet Over Policies to Be Carried Out.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Back from his month's vacation in Florida, President-elect Hoover reached Washington today at 1:30 p. m.

The President-elect, accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, was met at Union Station by Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican National Committee, and by George Akerson, his private secretary.
Few persons were admitted to the station platform, but a crowd of about 200 had gathered in the station to welcome him. Hoover was applauded as he passed through the station.

Bronzed by the Southern sun Mr. and Mrs. Hoover posed for an instant for cameramen and movie operators before entering their automobile and proceeding to their 8 street home.

The President-elect will immediately arrange for conferences on important questions which will be carried on to the eve of inauguration.
It is expected he will consult with some of those who are to be in his cabinet.

All conferences will be held at his 8 street home. He intends to remain in comparative seclusion there until inauguration day.

While Hoover has made no comment on reports that he will visit Havana soon after his inauguration, some of his advisers declare he will remain in Washington until the end of the special session of Congress.

They point to a number of questions which will engross his attention before the special session, such as conferences with farm leaders on agricultural relief preparatory to formulation of his recommendations to the new Congress on this subject.

General policies with respect to the functioning of various departments of the Government also will be subjects of frequent conferences with Cabinet officers, it is argued.
There also is the setting up of a closer contact between the chief executive and the independent agencies of the Government. This contact is to be maintained through one of the three secretaries to the President.

Another problem is that of selecting members of the commission which is to investigate prohibition and to make recommendations to minimize present abuses in law enforcement.

Prohibition has become a subject of such sharp controversy in the country that Hoover probably will be unable to carry out his own wish to name men who have an open mind on the question as there are few outstanding men who have not made a public declaration on one side or the other.

While Hoover has his inaugural address well advanced, it is far from finished. He is revising it section by section, and may not have it completed until around March 1.

SENATE BODY FOR CONTINUED INQUIRY INTO SALT CREEK

Yesterday by the court's refusal to reconsider its recent decision which held that the Secretary of the Interior could conduct an inquiry to determine whether the land in question was known to be mineral at the time it was surveyed.

An attempt by the present administration to examine the title was prevented by the courts of the District of Columbia which held that Albert B. Fall, while Secretary of the Interior, had closed the matter by awarding the land to the Standard Oil Co.

The Supreme Court, however, found that Fall's action was not final. It declared he had failed to go properly into the question of facts and it opened the way for the Interior Department to proceed with its examination.

The court by its ruling yesterday finally closed the matter in its present stage by refusing to rehear the case. Should it develop that the land was known to be mineral when surveyed, the Government will claim it, contending that it never lawfully passed to California as school lands and that it is by California to the Standard Oil Co. did not give the company title to it. The Government hopes that it will be enabled to add the land to its Elk Hills naval oil reserve.

JOSEPH B. THOMPSON.

TO NAME THOMPSON AS HYDE'S SUCCESSOR

Caulfield Announces Kansas City Man Will Be Next Insurance Superintendent.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 19.—
The contest for the appointment as State Insurance Superintendent under the Caulfield administration was terminated late yesterday afternoon when Gov. Caulfield announced he would appoint Joseph B.
Thompson of Kansas City effective on or after March 10. He will succeed Ben C. Hyde of Kansas City, who resigned recently, effective at the pleasure of the Governor.

Appointment of Thompson, whose selection has been urged by former Gov. A. M. Hyde of Kansas City, brother of the retiring superintendent, had been forecasted. However, other candidates had continued to make a strenuous campaign for the place, including former State Auditor George Heckmann of Jefferson City, A. C. Adams of Ozark, W. L. Diefendorf of Lehigh, and John Schupp of Fremont and John McNally of Kennett.

Opponents of Thompson declared his appointment would mean a continuation of the Hyde control of the Insurance Department, a control that has been in force for eight years. They asserted it would mean a continuation of advantage for reciprocal insurance companies in the fight that the reciprocals and stock fire insurance companies have waged for years for control of the department. Heckmann, Thompson's principal opponent for the appointment, was backed by indorsements of many of the stock companies.

Gov. Caulfield said Thompson had received many indorsements and that some of them were from representatives of stock fire insurance companies. He said he believed selection of Thompson would mean an end of the fight between the reciprocals and stock companies for domination of the department.
Representatives of some stock fire insurance companies recently became convinced that Thompson would be named and have not carried on an active fight.

Thompson, formerly of Ava, Mo., was secretary to former Gov. Hyde during the latter part of Hyde's administration.

Employed by Ex-Gov. Hyde.
After Hyde went out of office,
Thompson worked for a building and loan association in Kansas City, and more recently has been an agent for a life insurance company of which former Gov. Hyde is president. Ben C. Hyde was appointed insurance superintendent in 1921 by his brother, Gov. Hyde.
His appointment was considered a victory for the reciprocal companies. He was reappointed in 1925 by Gov. Baker.

About two years ago Superintendent Hyde suffered a stroke of paralysis, and since that time has had no contact with the Insurance Department. His affairs have been handled by subordinates. His resignation was submitted to Gov. Caulfield recently.

Caulfield said appointment of Thompson had been deferred to March 10, because a large number of certificates for renewal on insurance company licenses and brokers' and dealers' licenses had been prepared in the Insurance Department, bearing the printed name of Superintendent Hyde for issuance in the next week or two.
To change these to show the name of a new superintendent would involve a printing expense of $2000 or $3000, Caulfield said.

HOUSE BILL FOR AN EMBARGO ON ARMS IN WAR IS TABLED

Action on Resolution Impossible at This Session, Says Chairman
Porter, Its Author.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The House Foreign Affairs Committee today tabled the Porter resolution to authorize the President to impose embargoes on exports of arms and munitions to warring countries.

The action was taken, Chairman Porter said, because the committee realized it would be impossible to obtain consideration of the measure at this session. He said he would reintroduce the measure at the next regular session of Congress.

FLOODS FOLLOW SEVERE COLD IN BALKAN STATES

Many Reported Drowned or Homeless When Danube and Tributaries Leave Banks.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Flood-ter replaced the rigor of the bitter cold over a large part of Europe today. It was feared that when the toll of the inundations, real and prospective, was complete, it would equal or surpass that of the cold.

The Danube and tributaries went over their banks and forced many from their homes. Melting snow and ice caused disastrous floods in Macedonia and Thracian Bulgarian rivers overflowed, while rising temperatures in Northern Italy forced a rapid swelling of rivers there.

Temperatures were less extreme than they have been, but in many localities the thermometer had not risen to above freezing point. Advices from the Danube district, where ice and snow have been placed six feet thick over the surface of the river, indicated a worse situation there than elsewhere.
The Danube and its tributaries not only to carry off the huge load of melting ice and snow, but faced the hazard of ice dams which spread its waters over wide areas before they could be broken.

Damage in Macedonia.
Widespread damage was reported from Thracian and Macedonian rivers overflowed, sweeping away bridges and hundreds of cattle and flooding homes. A number of peasants were drowned.

Part of the city of Cavalla, site of an American tobacco depot, was submerged, while Heraclea was transformed into a vast lake with inhabitants being fed by merchants who piled their wares in boats.
Jugo-Slavian and Greek soldiers co-operated to save lives and property.

In Bavaria large areas were flooded by overflowing rivers, the situation adding greatly to the suffering from what was still extreme cold.

It was reported from Stockholm that the ice barrier along the southwestern and southern coasts of Sweden was growing steadily, although once-a-day communication was being maintained with Denmark and Germany. Numerous steamers were still stranded, ice-bound, in the Baltic Sound and the Kattegat.

Train Service Stopped.
A huge snowstorm stopped all train service in Southern Sweden and in some sections of Scandinavia inhabitants had to dig their way out of houses through snow-drifts. Continued intense cold was predicted.

Britain's hope of a thaw has not yet been realized although the cold has greatly moderated and at present does not exceed what is often found here.

Storms off the Spanish coast did serious damage to the fishing fleet.
One boat was wrecked and another barely made its way into Bilbao.
All fishing at Almeria was suspended.
Asturias province experienced a touch of cold with freezing temperatures recorded at Oviedo. Sp-its until now has escaped the general European cold.

Airplanes Take Members to Danish Parliament.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 18.—Ten Danish military airplanes have been placed at the disposal of the Danish lower House of the Danish Parliament to Copenhagen.
Eleven members of Parliament have been brought here in this fashion.

The action was made necessary because of ice-bound conditions in the great belt that separates the island on which Copenhagen is located from the mainland.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Feb. 19.— Heavy rains which have caused the Tiete River to overflow for several miles have put 5000 homes under water and made 25,000 persons homeless. Hundreds of automobiles carrying sightseers into the district to view the worst flood there in 40 years.

PROGRAM FOR BROADCASTING INAUGURATION OF HOOVER

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The arrangements by which the inauguration of Herbert Hoover will be broadcast by radio were announced yesterday by the National Broadcasting Co.

The broadcast will be the greatest of radio history. A five-hour program, beginning at 10 a. m. St.
Louis time, March 4, and ending at 3 p. m., will be available to 58 stations in this country, and on short wave transmission will be sent to the other countries of the world.

Thirty microphones will be used by the staff of announcers. According to the administration of the path on the steps of the Capitol, the swearing in of Vice President Charles Curtis in the Senate chamber, and the inaugural parade following will be described in detail.

A special sound-proof booth will be placed in the Senate chamber and from there David Lawrence, political writer, will describe the proceedings. Among others who will broadcast are Graham McNamee, Milton J. Cross, John B. Daniel and William S. Lynch.

LENROOT DENIES THAT HE LOBBIED FOR POWER TRUST

Ex-Senator Tells Judiciary Committee He Never Approached Former Colleagues Over Inquiry.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-
Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Former Senator Irvine T. Lenroot (Rep.), Wisconsin, whose nomination for the Court of Customs Appeals is now pending in the Senate, denied before the Senate Judiciary Committee today that he had ever lobbied or personally solicited Senators in behalf of the Power Trust against the Walsh resolution for an investigation of gas and electric public utilities.

He said that the $20,000 he received as a fee from the Joint Committee of National Utility Associations for appearing before the Senate Interstate Commerce Commission was as ethical as an attorney's appearance in court.

Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, asked Lenroot whether he had seen statements in newspapers that he was employed as a lobbyist for the Joint Committee.

"I saw them," Lenroot replied,
"and it is now a matter of sincere regret that I did not depart from my usual custom and sue those newspapers for libel. I never sought to influence any Senator or member of the committee other than by arguments: open committee meetings. At no time did I ever discuss legislation with Senators on the floor of the Senate. As a matter of fact, I did not see the floor once since I retired."

"What are your views as to the propriety of a former Senator accepting employment as a lobbyist, and then availing himself of the advantages of his former position?" Borah asked.
"I have very decided views as to that," Lenroot replied. "No Senator should use privileges which inure to him because of his standing as a former Senator. When I was a member of the Senate, I made some emphatic remarks on the abuse of the floor privilege and on one occasion I was instrumental in having a former Senator driven from the floor."

Lenroot referred to former Senator Hoke Smith (Dem.), Georgia, who was said to be lobbying on the floor of the Senate.

"I have had many offers of employment which would have involved personal solicitation of Senators, but I have refused all such
"When I accepted employment with the Joint Committee I did so on the expressed condition that there would be no personal solicitation of Senators. I have even made that a condition of work accepted by my firm."

Borah asked Lenroot about his interview with former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall regarding the leasing of naval oil reserves. The Wisconsin Senator said that all he had said on that subject was in the hearings before the Public Lands Committee and before the District Court. This testimony was indeed incorporated in the record.

Guatemala to Release Suspect.

GUATEMALA CITY, Feb. 19.— Announcement was made today that Alessio Losi of Novio, N. J., who has been detained by the Guatemalan authorities on suspicion of being connected with a plot to assassinate President Chacon, will be released. The decision to release Losi was reached after he had been questioned this morning by the police.

Bill for Tax Increase Advanced in Legislature

though its passage there is not certain. If it passes, the additional revenues will come mostly from the cities, just as most of the revenues now come. The legislators are proceeding on the theory that the reachable property is in the cities, and that is where the tax money must come from.

Rural Demands Made.
The recent demands of rural sections of Missouri for control of the expenditure of a very considerable portion of the $188,000,000 of road funds during the next year and for a heavy increase in State expenditures for rural schools has directed attention to a critical condition in State finances. The breach between city and country has been widened, developing to some extent a feeling in the cities that the country was making unreasonable demands and in the country that the cities were selfishly seeking to ignore pressing rural conditions.

Some city members of the Legislature have taunted rural members with the fact that their counties contribute little to the State revenues and yet are hogish in their demands for State aid of many kinds. Rural members have replied that "they were not beggars," but were merely demanding their rights.

In view of this situation, admittedly not a healthy one for the State, it may be timely to set out the facts for the information of city and country as well.

Revenue From Large Cities.
The road controversy ended happily with the passage of the bond issue enabling acts, not in the form many rural members desired, but in a form to give the rural sections virtually all of the roads which will be constructed. The issue over the school question is just starting in the Legislature.

It may be said at the outset that there is no question that the larger part of the revenues which go into operation of the State government comes from St. Louis, Kansas City and a very few counties. The remaining counties are tax consumers, not tax contributors, a condition which leads directly to the unescapable fact that taxes can come only from the places where the wealth is found, and in Missouri that is in the larger cities.

Except for a few counties there but statistics will be given as to the principal sources, divided to show the amount paid by St. Louis, St.
Louis County, Jackson County, including Kansas City: Buchanan County, including St. Joseph; Greene County, including Springfield, and Jasper County, including Joplin and Carthage. The amount paid by the remainder of the State will be shown, and there will be a separate showing for 46 counties south of the river, grouped under the general term of Ozark counties.

All Deserve Good Schools.
And yet there is no questioning the fact that the State has a vital interest in having good roads throughout this section, and in providing the children with educational advantages equal to those of more prosperous communities. It must be conceded that the child on an Ozark hillside farm is entitled to school on as nearly a par as possible with the child in the city or town.

There are occasions, of course, when rural legislators seek to shunt off onto the State at large burdens which are peculiarly their own, but these are rare. An instance in this Legislature is a bill to reduce the payment a county makes for an insane patient in a State hospital from $18 to $5. The difference between the $5 and the cost of maintaining the patient necessarily would come from the revenues, which are produced by the large cities, and would be a long departure from the principle that such patients are properly the wards of the county and not of the State at large.

Principal Tax Sources.
The principal sources of State revenues in Missouri are from the direct property tax, the income tax, the inheritance tax and the corporation franchise tax. They produce a total of slightly in excess of $11,000,000 a year, of which more than $9,000,000 is paid by St. Louis and five counties, the remaining $2,000,000 coming from the other 109 counties. Something in excess of $2,000,000 is received by the State from other sources.

The State road fund is supported by automobile license fees and gasoline tax, the total reaching $14,500,000 a year, of which one-half is paid by St. Louis and the five counties, the other half coming from the remaining 109 counties.

In setting out the conditions which prevail in the revenue of the State, no attempt will be made to consider each county separately.

grouping are Franklin, Gasconade, Osage, Cole, Monticau, Morgan, Benton, Miller, Maries, Hickory,
St. Clair, Cedar, Polk, Camden, Dallas, Laclede, Pulaski, Phelps, Dent, Crawford, Washington, St.
Francis, Jefferson, Ste. Genevieve, Perry, Iron, Reynolds, Madison,
Bollinger, Wayne, Butler, Ripley, Carter, Oregon, Shannon, Texas,
Howell, Wright, Douglas, Ozark, Taney, Christian, Stone, Barry,
McDonald and Webster.

How Revenue Is Derived.
The receipts from the leading sources of revenue are:

Road funds. Obtained from license fees on automobiles and the gasoline tax. Annual receipts approximately $14,500,000, of which St.
Louis and the five counties pay approximately $7,500,000, the balance of the State $7,000,000, of which approximately $2,000,000 is paid by the Ozark group. Thus, to the road fund the city group pays slightly more than 50 per cent, the remainder of the State a little less than 50 per cent, the Ozark group paying about 20 per cent.

Income Tax. Total receipts are approximately $2,700,000 annually, of which the city group pays approximately $3,400,000, the remainder of the State approximately $300,000, of which the Ozark group pays approximately $86,000. Thus the city group pays more than 90 per cent, and the Ozark group approximately 2 1/2 per cent.

Inheritance Tax. Total receipts approximately $2,000,000, of which the city group pays approximately $2,800,000, or 92 per cent, the remainder of the State approximately $200,000, or 7 per cent, including the Ozark group with only $35,000, or about 1 per cent.

General Property Tax. Total receipts approximately $2,450,000, of which the city group pays approximately $1,220,000 or 50 per cent, the remainder of the State almost exactly the same amount, and the Ozark group approximately $250,000 or 10 per cent.

Corporation Franchise Tax.
Total receipts are approximately $60,000. The method of apportioning this tax is in accordance with State records makes it impossible to obtain a division of this tax among the counties, but it largely is paid by the city group, and a very small percentage comes from the Ozark group.

There is a very excellent reason for the preponderance of tax receipts from the city group, and will be found in the record of the assessed valuation of property in the State, a record which shows where the wealth is to be found.

Assessed Valuation.
The total assessed valuation of the State is $4,966,473,494.
This $2,537,589,411 is in St. Louis and the counties included in the city group. Only $1,188,884,083 is in the counties of the Ozark group.
The total population of the State is 3,304,055, of which more than 500,000, approximately one-half, is in the city group, and only 180,000 in the Ozark group.

SALISBURY SILENT ON LAMBERT'S CRITICISM

Going Ahead With Airport Plans Without Employing Technical Expert.

Director of Public Welfare Salisbury, chairman of the Airport Commission, today declined to comment on Maj. Albert Bond Lambert's renewed criticism of the city's failure to obtain the professional services of an expert airport designer to draw a general plan for the $2,000,000 municipal airport.

In a published statement yesterday Maj. Lambert reiterated his criticism of the present city administration for going ahead with plans for the airport without the services of an expert designer. He questioned the propriety of an ordinance, now before the Board of Aldermen, covering the administration of the airport on the ground that the five members of the permanent Airport Commission not connected with the city administration should be appointed by the Mayor, and not by the chairman of the commission, as is proposed in the ordinance. The Director of Public Welfare will be chairman of the commission.

Maj. Lambert also called attention to the fact that a temporary lighting system is just being installed at the airport, although $40,000 was appropriated for a lighting system under a city ordinance.

nance passed more than a year ago. Director Salisbury announced that W. W. Stoecker, a drainage engineer, retained by the city to supervise drainage and grading at the airport, was making a preliminary survey preparatory to starting work. A plan for covering Cold Water Creek, which crosses the airport, is also in preparation in spite of the fact that it is expected that the course of the creek will be diverted around the field.

HEARD HAMMONDS AND WIFE IN ROW ABOUT JOHNSTON

Oklahoma City Attorney Testifies Husband Told Woman "You Have Gone Far Enough."

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Feb. 19.—Barred from the presentation of opinion as to the competency of Gov. Henry S. Johnston in his trial before the Senate court of impeachment, the House board of managers continued today with the offering of testimony intended to prove incompetence.

A purported conversation between Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, who recently resigned as confidential secretary to the suspended Governor, and her husband, State Health Commissioner, in which Mrs. Hammonds was quoted as saying, "We're going to get ours while we can," was related to the Court by Jack Wheeler, Oklahoma City attorney.

Mrs. Hammonds, her uncle, James R. Armstrong and George D. Key, Democratic State chairman, were dubbed a "triumvirate" with alleged control over Johnston, in argument yesterday by R. H. Stanley, member of the board of managers.

Wheeler said he overheard the conversation between Dr. Hammonds and his wife, when his own presence in the Governor's office late at night was unobserved.

Dr. Hammonds, Wheeler declared, protested to his wife that "your affairs with the Governor have gone far enough."

"Shut your mouth," Wheeler quoted Mrs. Hammonds as responding.

Under cross-examination, Wheeler said Mrs. Hammonds added: "We're going to get ours while we can. We'll be politically dead in two or four years."

Opinions as to the competency of Gov. Johnston were excluded yesterday by the Senate court, after it had permitted H. E. Sullivan, Johnston's private secretary, to express the conclusion that his chief was incompetent under circumstances that have prevailed during his administration.

Previously the court had ruled inadmissible a reply of Mark Saxon, past grand master of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Oklahoma and long-time critic of the Governor, himself a former grand master, to a question similar to that propounded to Sullivan, but based on Saxon's observation of Johnston's conduct of the affairs of the Masonic organization. The ruling sustained an objection of counsel for the defense that Johnston was not on trial for his record as a Masonic officer but as Governor, and prevented Saxon from making a reply.

CHICAGO UNION HEADS FINED $10,000 FOR LEVYING TRIBUTE

Four Officers of Glaziers' Group Plead Guilty of Extortion from Cabinet Concern.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Fines totaling $10,000 were assessed against officers of the Chicago Glaziers' Union today, following their pleas of guilty to charges of violating the Sherman anti-trust laws.

The officers were accused of exacting tribute from manufacturers of kitchen cabinets, who were forced to pay the union men before the union would permit the cabinets to be distributed in Chicago.

George H. Meyers, manager of the union, was fined $5000. Charles Pfeiffer, president and business agent, was fined $2500; Timothy Rice, business agent, $1500; Frank Harris, trustee and secretary, $1000.

The Chicago Glaziers' Union refused to let cabinets manufactured in Indiana be distributed in Chicago and Illinois unless the glazing work was done here. The manufacturers declined to agree to this, it was brought out, but agreed to pay the Chicago union for the work while having it done in their own factories.

LINDBERGH MEETS MOTHER

AS SHE REACHES NEW YORK

Colonel Board's Vessel Down the Bay and They Have Lunch in Cabin.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh came home from Constantinople today on the steamer President Wilson. When Col. Lindbergh, who had gone down the bay on the Government cutter to meet the liner, went aboard the big ship he was escorted to his mother's cabin and the two had luncheon there.

Extraordinary precautions were taken to prevent intrusion, but it seemed fair to assume that mother and son talked about the Colonel's betrouble to Miss Anne Morrow.

The Lindberghs remained in seclusion as the ship came up the bay to her Hoboken dock. They hurried off the boat and into a hired automobile, which presumably whisked them to New York.

TO THE OWNERS OF AMERICA'S HOMES FROM THE DESIGNERS OF AMERICA'S SKYLINE

"—we have found that in the long run Copper and Brass prove a real dollars and cents economy even for very modest homes."

GEORGE B. POST & SONS

George B. Post & Sons

GEORGE B. POST & SONS, one of the leading architectural firms of America, are strong adherents of the finest in building construction. This firm, along with practically all the leaders in the profession strongly recommends the use of Copper, Brass and Bronze materials wherever possible in home construction. Not just because they are the finest materials. But because they are also the most economical.

The home that is equipped with Brass pipe, Copper flashings, gutters and downspouts and solid Brass or Bronze hardware and lighting fixtures will never fall prey to rust. And the owner will never have to pay for expensive repairs and replacements. For these everlasting metals cannot rust.

Copper, Brass and Bronze materials may cost somewhat more than the rustable kind. But as George B. Post & Sons say:

"Our experience shows that to object to them on the score of cost is very short sighted economy. As a matter of fact, we have found that in the long run Copper and Brass prove a real dollars and cents economy even for very modest residences."

Write our Building Service Department for any additional information.

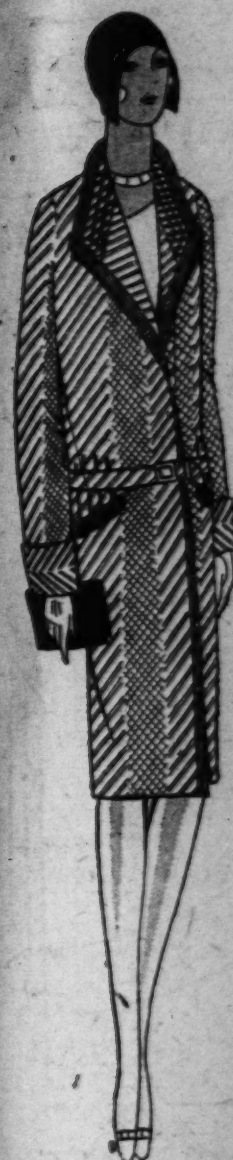

Considering their life-long service and their absolute protection against rust, Copper, Brass and Bronze are not expensive even in the construction of small homes.

LINDBERGH PLEADS FOR AIR MAIL BILL; HOUSE PASSES IT

Measure Providing for U. S. Service to Latin-American Republics Adopted Unanimously.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Shortly after Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had told House leaders yesterday of a need for legislation to make available United States air mail service to Latin-American countries, the House passed the Kelly bill to render such facilities to nations of the Western hemisphere. The measure now goes to the Senate.

The bill would authorize the Postmaster-General to sign contracts with governments, individuals and corporations for the handling of air mail to and from Central and South American countries and insular possessions. At present the American air lines planning to operate in those countries cannot receive pay for mail bound to the United States.

Lindbergh, who left here yesterday for New York, had discussed with Representative Kelly (Rep., Pennsylvania), the possibilities of expanding air communication and transportation service throughout the Americas, and said he was greatly encouraged over the prospects as a result of his recent flight to the Canal Zone.

Bill Passed Unanimously.
Kelly immediately succeeded in getting the measure before the House and it was passed unanimously, before the Pennsylvania had an opportunity to read a letter from Lindbergh supporting the bill.

Under the measure a "both-way" service would be provided on each route, provided the Postmaster-General makes contracts with the Governments or the persons controlling the air mail of certain governments. In several Latin-American countries, monopolies to certain aircraft companies have been granted by the governments. "Due to the slowness of the present means of travel and the expense and difficulties of railroad construction," Lindbergh said in his letter to Kelly, "it appears that the airplane affords the most feasible way of bringing modern transportation to isolated communities."

"The Central American republics, which I passed through en route to the Canal Zone, displayed intense interest in the possibility of rapid communication with the United States and with each other and were anxious to know when the facilities of the air lines would be placed at their disposal for mail and for passengers."

"I believe that provision should be made for the transportation of mail from these countries back to the United States and for their inclusion in this service at the earliest possible moment."

Promotions in Flying Corps.
Lindbergh also talked to Representative Furlow (Rep., Minnesota), who is a former army aviator and is the author of a bill to establish a separate promotion list for officers of the Army Air Corps. Discussing the measure shortly before his departure for New York, Lindbergh expressed the opinion that "a separate promotion list would do much to relieve the situation" in the army caused by the difficulty of promoting aviation officers.

He pointed out that officers of the Air Corps were entitled to special consideration because of the hazards of their duties. He said the flying life of an officer was much shorter than the active duty life of ground officers. The air service has already lost several of its best officers to commercial companies because of the greater opportunities offered by them. Under present regulations, army air officers must wait their turn for promotion along with all the officers of the regular army.

QUEEN'S DAUGHTERS HOME GETS BACK STOLEN RADIO Set Was Purchased by 175 Girls, Who Gave Card Parties to Raise Funds.

A radio stolen from the Queen's Daughters' Home for Girls, 3730 Lindell boulevard, Feb. 3, was returned yesterday, after police had found it in the home of William Johnson, Negro, 1013 Whittier street.

William Mason, a Negro and former janitor for the Queen's Daughters, arrested with Johnson and three others last Saturday on suspicion, admitted taking the radio from the home and bringing it to Johnson's home. Warrants for Mason and Johnson, charging grand larceny, will be sought.

The radio was purchased by 175 girls who gave card parties and shows to raise funds for it. A duplicate set was donated anonymously. It will probably be used in an adjoining dormitory at 3724 Lindell boulevard.

"I am not committed to all opposition to the modification or repeal of the Volstead amendment. I am not committed against the modification of the repeal of the Volstead act. So we are quarreling with our friends; and we are to urge a repeal, not far from quarrelsome language, but scheme, we invite them to present it to—present it with all their power and ability, and let the American people ultimately put upon it.

"Blames Liquor Interests.

"I shall not, of course, take issue with the able Senator upon question that there are violators of the law. I know that. I certainly shall not take issue with him upon question that the law is being used to corrupt. I am inclined to call his attention to the fact, however, that there never has been a law placed upon the statute books by any civilized nation on the earth with reference to liquor that has broken down, to the extent that liquor is to corrupt the officials. It is the history of liquor legislation from the beginning until this hour. It is not within the ingenuity of humankind to devise a liquor law that will be satisfactory to liquor interests."

Borch developed this point in length, and continued:

"Underlying this entire question is the fact that the American people must guard themselves for the future, not in civilization, but in respect to the law. It is not in the laws which they themselves write. That is the test of free government—whether the people can enforce the rules which they make for themselves.

Bruce Urges Adoption of Quebec Liquor System

Bruce eulogized Mussolini as "a man of the people." Though many in the United States, he said, did not agree with the Mussolini philosophy of government, there could be no doubt that he was accomplishing a great deal of good. Bruce's praise of Mussolini was based on the closing of 25,000 saloons by imperial edict.
The galleries hung on the words of the Idaho orator as they had hung on those of the Missourian. Bruce made notes during the speech and for a reply, but Senator Heflin got the floor. There was an immediate exodus of a large proportion of the Senators who had listened to Reed and Bruce.

Praises Reed's Sincerity.
Bruce in his opening eulogized the sincerity and ability of the Missourian Senator. He said he agreed heartily with Reed that men who violated a law they had helped to pass were deserving of the severest condemnation.
"Of those who make the law live in violation of the law," Bruce said, "the ax has already been laid at the root of the tree of representative government. There is a peculiar and heavier obligation resting upon those who make the law than upon those for whom the law is made, although of course it binds all. But upon reflection, how are we to distinguish between those who make the law and those who violate it? It is to execute the law? If there be included the latter with the former, then let the Senator from Missouri unleash his fine irony and his scathing invective: he has a subject worthy of his talent."

"The able Senator said that prohibition was the crime of crimes which had been committed in the matter of legislation in the United States. With that I cannot agree. It may be a mistake; the people of the United States may have erred in their judgment. Time and experience alone will demonstrate that fact. But it was not a crime; the people of the United States were sincerely struggling with what was deemed to be one of the great evils of modern civilization. Everyone had been brought to realize that in some way and in a more effective way it was the duty of the people of this country to deal with this problem. The object was an exalted one."

"No, it was not a crime to undertake to control and bring under the direction of law and under the domination of civilization that which would undermine and destroy civilization."

Not Fixedly Against Repeal.
"We may not have found as yet the right remedy; I do not know. The fight against the liquor traffic is not for 10 days or 10 years; it is a moral fight, and only from day to day and from progressive action can we ultimately determine how we shall deal with it."

"But, the question is not whether it was an error, whether or not it was a mistake."

"I am not committed to all opposition to the modification or even the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. I am not committed against the modification of even the repeal of the Volstead act. I am only committed against the change, the repeal either of the amendment or of the law, so long as nothing better and more effective has been or can be presented. If there be a better way to control the evil of drink, a more effective way, more thorough, and with better results to those whom we would serve, let us have it."

"I do not find fault with those who advocate the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. I may differ with them as to the arguments which they put forth and as to the reasons with which they undertake to sustain their position; but the right to advocate the repeal is a sacred right—just as sacred as the right to put an amendment in the constitution in the first place. So we are not quarreling with our friends about their right to urge a repeal; and, far from quarreling about a better means, we invite them to present it to present with all their power and ability, let the American people ultimately pass upon it."

Blames Liquor Interests.
"I shall not, of course, take issue with the able Senator upon the question that there are violations of the law. I know that. I certainly shall not take issue with him upon the question that the law has been corrupted. I know that. I call his attention to the fact, however, that there never has been a law placed upon the statute books of any civilized nation on the earth with reference to liquor that liquor forces did not undertake to break down, to violate, to undermine, to corrupt the officials. It is the history of liquor legislation from the beginning until this hour. It is not within the ingenuity of the human mind to devise a liquor law that will be satisfactory to the liquor interests."

Bruce developed this point at length, and continued:
"Underlying this entire question is the fact that the American people must guard themselves for the supreme task in civilization, that is, whether or not they can enforce the laws which they themselves write. That is the test of free government—whether the people can enforce the rules which they lay down for themselves."

"We have been so busy in conquering a continent, in reclaiming the forests and reclaiming the deserts, and getting ourselves ahead in the great struggle for dominancy of our natural wealth, that perhaps we have not given to this other problem the consideration which older communities have given to it. But it is here, it confronts us. Let us not be misled by reference to prohibition alone. It is an unending proposition with which the American people must deal, and just such speeches as that made by the able Senator from Missouri, will, although devoted largely to one question, emphasize and call to the attention of the people the fact that they are up against the proposition of preserving the first principles of representative government."

Rid of the Saloon.
In concluding his speech Senator Bruce said:
"I said in the beginning that this is not a fight of 10 days or 10 years. Neither, in my judgment, are the evils which accompany our effort peculiar to the method which we have employed. It does not make any difference how we shall undertake to deal with it—whether we use the same evils to contend with."

"The Senator from Missouri, with his usual candor, said that he was in favor of going back to States' rights; that he was in favor of giving this question over to the control of the States. Of course, that means the saloon. I do not believe the Senator from Missouri believes in the saloon; I do not believe anybody any longer believes in the saloon."

"Let me digress long enough to say that while we have for many years been disposed to jeer at the temperance reformers, at those who are advocating prohibition; I think they have accomplished one thing: they have got rid of the saloon. I do not think anyone wants to go back to the saloon. That is one monument to those who were spoken of for so long as cranks, as fanatics. They have convinced the American people that the saloon is intolerable; that it is a cancer upon the body politic; that it cannot be tolerated; and no one, I presume, wants to go back to it."

"However, Mr. President, would the temperance reformers have ever closed the saloon by moral suasion? Good as they were, and noble as they were in their appeal for needed reform, how long would it have taken the temperance reformer to have closed one saloon by moral suasion, by appeal to the moral law?"

Moral Suasion Not Enough.
"We had to invoke the law somewhere in order to incorporate and crystallize the effect of the work of these people for 75 years. The moral influence and the moral suasion and the preaching had their place, and let them never be abandoned; but there must be something more, and that is the law and authority of the Government back of the law. That finally resulted in the destruction of the saloon, and, in my opinion, if we go back to the states we shall inevitably go back to the saloon."

"I live in a state which was born according to law, before the eighteenth amendment was adopted, but there was no way by which the people of Idaho could protect themselves from those states which were not dry. The people who are now urging the belief in States' rights—I am not speaking now of individuals, but of the liquor interests—in no sense respected the right of Idaho to be dry. They shipped their wet goods into the State over the border, established their saloons within five miles of the border, and supplied the State in a way that the State was powerless to prevent. States' rights were then not so sacred in the eyes of the liquor interests as it is today."

Assaults State Control.
"It is true that the able Senator from Missouri secured the adoption here of an amendment to a bill which provided that when liquor was shipped into a State it became subject to the control of the laws of the State. By a majority of the Supreme Court that provision of the law was upheld, but the court also held that, while one could not ship liquor into the State, there was no power to prevent it from shipping it across the border, and we discovered that when the liquor started it never got across. It was impossible to enforce the law with all the states whose people were engaged in the liquor business undertaking to break it down."

"Suppose we should let it go back to the states, and suppose the State of Missouri adopted the old system, how should we protect the border states? We should have to have spies; we should have to have policemen; we should have to have the militia to protect the four borders of the states if we expected the law not to be violated by those who intended to have liquor cross the State line. There is no more reason to believe that they will respect the borders of the State of Idaho than that they will respect the Constitution of the United States."

"Do what we will and try as we may, we have these evils to contend with. They are a part of any effort to undertake to control or deal with the liquor problem, and I had rather undertake to deal with it by Government of the United States than to protect only the borders of the United States than having 48 states undertake to control four times 48 boundary lines."

Parallel in Narcotics Law.
"The Senator from Missouri referred to the awful condition with reference to the use of narcotics. He is quite right; it is one of the most alarming situations with which we have to deal; but has not the man who wants a narcotic the right to have it? If we have no right to deny a man the right to have liquor, what right have we to deny him the right to take narcotics? One may be more dangerous than the other, but the question of individual liberty, of individual right, to my mind, is precisely the same. But we do deny it, and we deny it upon the theory that when an individual indulges in a practice which is harmful to the community or to those who are dependent upon him, it becomes a subject for the consideration of the public, and the public has the right to determine what the rule shall be."

"I noticed the other day that the Prince of Wales, almost on the point of becoming the ruler of his kingdom, though fortunately the exigency passed, concluded to go out and visit the poor of England. He was astounded at the condition which he found among his people; he was moved to paths when he found 11 and 12 people, men, women and children, boys and girls, huddled in one common room, sleeping together like so many swine, with all the finer things of life driven out. It shocked the Prince. I read in a newspaper that while he was on his visit there came home a father with 17 cents in his pocket. When asked where the other part of the 50 cents were which he had earned for the day, he stated that he had left it at the grog shop. Do you tell me, Mr. President, that Government has the right and no power to protect the hungry children who were waiting for the 50 cents to supply the food for which their pallid lips were pleading? In a republic whatever the community determines is essential to the public welfare binds you and binds me during that time. If we do not believe in that rule, we do not believe in a democracy."

"The Senator from Missouri was of the opinion that the use of narcotics had increased since prohibition. I cannot dispute that; I have not examined the figures. I only know that in England, where there is no control of the liquor traffic, the use of narcotics is sweeping forward the same as it is in this country. I only know that Canada has the same problem to deal with. I rather suspect that if the Senator will take into consideration population, the population of the United States of 120,000,000 and the population of England and the population of Canada, he will find that the increase in the use of narcotics in those countries has kept pace with that in the United States. At any rate, it is going forward in those countries at such a rapid pace that it is alarming to all the people who take concern of the public welfare."

Stands Pat for the Law.
"What shall we do about the liquor traffic? Possibly we cannot prevent it entirely; possibly we cannot prevent the use of alcoholic drinks altogether, but shall we continue the effort or shall we surrender in the fight? So far as I am concerned, Mr. President, so long as it is written in the Constitution of the United States that the sale of intoxicating liquors is injurious to the public welfare, and that declaration embodies the policy of the people, I propose in every way that is reasonable and fair to undertake to maintain that Constitution."

"Let us all combine in that effort. The Senators from Missouri will never see the day, if they see the day when the eighteenth amendment is out of the Constitution of the United States. In the meantime, using our influence, our moral leadership, and our public office as Senators and as men, let us see to it that it is enforced insofar as it is possible for human ingenuity to enforce it. Let us maintain it and support it with fervor and the devotion that we would support and maintain the sacred principles upon which all free governments rest."

When Bruce concluded his speech Reed walked over and grasped him by the hand.
Caraway Recalls Houston Statement by Reed.
Senator Caraway (Dem.), Arkansas, called attention late yesterday to a statement given out by Reed at Houston at the time the Missouri was a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"The same Senator," Caraway declared, "who has for the last two days been denouncing hypocrites, gave out an interview at Houston in which he himself offered to lead the drys to victory."

ALMA RUBENS GOES TO PRIVATE SANITARIUM FOR DRUG CURE Film Actress Who Left Hollywood Hospital Sunday Reported to Be Improving.
By the Associated Press.
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 19.—Alma Rubens, film actress, who has been suffering from a nervous condition and excessive use of narcotics, was returned to a private sanitarium late yesterday. She was taken from her home, at which she returned Sunday from the Hollywood hospital, to a sanitarium where she previously spent considerable time regaining her health.

Miss Rubens underwent a slight operation in the hospital last week, following which her condition was reported to be critical. The nature of the operation was not made public, but it was admitted she was being treated for addiction to drugs. She was reported as being considerably improved when released from the hospital Sunday, but it was found last night that her home was not the proper place for treatments.

Investigations are being made into the alleged illegal practice of prescribing narcotics to Miss Rubens by a Beverly Hills physician. The actress was quoted by her mother as declaring she had paid this doctor more than $1200 in five weeks for drug prescriptions. Thirty-one such prescriptions, signed by Dr. L. Jesse Citron, were seized during the inquiry by State and Federal officials.

RIVAL AUSTRIAN PARTY HEADS AGREE NOT TO ARM FOLLOWERS
VIENNA, Feb. 19.—Leaders of the rival political organizations, Heimwehr and Schutzbund, agreed not to arm their followers for the demonstrations to be held here next Sunday and to limit the number of participants on each side to 500. They declined, however, to give any further guarantees that peace would be maintained.

The Government decided to place field cannon, machine guns and a battalion of soldiers outside each projected demonstration place. Mobilization was begun yesterday of the 100,000 men in the combined army, gendarmes and police. All officers and soldiers on leave have been ordered back to their regiments.

The concessions made by the rival leaders were at the behest of Police President Schöber. He is determined to compel the rivals to meet in widely separated parts of the city if he is unsuccessful in prevailing on one of them to conduct its meeting at another date.

Rivalry between these organizations culminated in riots in July, 1927, with resulting deaths of 100 persons and the burning of the Palace of Justice. Although it is thought the situation is less threatening now, the independent press denounces the Government for permitting the demonstrations.
Boy, 11, Engineers Jailbreak.
RICHMOND, Ind., Feb. 19.—Jimmy Hamilton, 11 years old, and Robert Treep, 15, were confined in the juvenile ward of the women's prison after police said they had for joy rides. Late yesterday Jimmy persuaded a woman in adjoining quarters to unlatch a door through which he escaped. While officers hunted him he returned, sawed through a lock and liberated young Treep. This morning the boys went to the home of Treep's parents and were caught.

ADMITTS SLAYING ST. LOUIS YOUTH ON ARIZONA TRIP

Charles Foster Says He Killed Mike Baker While Latter Was Asleep in Coupe.

By the Associated Press.
BISBEE, Ariz., Feb. 19.—Charles Foster of Claysville, Pa., was arraigned yesterday afternoon in Tombstone on a charge of murdering Mike Baker, 22 years old, of St. Louis, while Baker slept in his coupe parked off the highway five miles west of Benson.

Foster, who was arrested at Lordsburg, N. M., less than 12 hours after the slaying, confessed the crime in detail to the Cochise County Attorney, who stated robbery was undoubtedly the motive although Foster maintained he shot because he feared Baker. The accused man said Baker had told him to get "some new rubber" to replace worn tires on the small coupe in which the two were traveling. East—Baker picked Foster up on the Mohave Desert west of Yuma, Foster places the time of the killing at daybreak Saturday. Foster, according to his confession, opened the right door of the car, placed a pistol against Baker's temple and pulled the trigger.

Authorities have been unable to reach relatives of Baker, but have learned he was discharged from the navy two months ago after having served three years.

37,000 GALLONS OF MASH DESTROYED IN LIQUOR RAID

Police destroyed 37,000 gallons of mash after Federal prohibition agents had raided a garage at 2516 South Fourth street today. The agents arrested Antoine Mueller, who lives above the garage and conducts a hauling business there, and Emmett Rickard and Joseph Brinkman, who were found in the garage. A 300-gallon capacity still was in the place. The police also destroyed two wooden vats, in which the mash was contained. Mueller and Brinkman were released on bonds of $1000 apiece, after being charged with possession of material for the manufacture of liquor.

DENIES POPE LOST POWER IN MAKING PACT WITH ITALY

serts Church Now Has Full Liberty, in Creation of Super-National State.

By the Associated Press.
VATICAN CITY, Feb. 19.—Observatore Romano, used by the Vatican for the publication of official announcements, tonight prints a lengthy editorial declaring that the Pope has in no wise subordinated his own sovereignty to that of Italy by the recent conclusion of the Lateran treaty. The editorial, entitled "Imperilment Doubts," is designed as an answer to several critics, mainly French, who fear or profess to fear that the Pope has compromised the church's independence by concluding the accord with King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Mussolini.

It refers questioners to the Pontiff's speech to Lenten preachers and the Roman parish priests Feb. 11, and remarks that the Pope has no need of international agreements on the part of other Powers to safeguard his independence.

Says Church Now Is Free.
"The small pontifical state," the paper says, "is already international or, better, super-national; free, independent and neutral by its own nature and not by virtue of accords among other Powers which are necessary for establishing the sovereignty, independence and neutrality of other small states."

"This international super-national nature of the pontifical state was violated and negated by the Italian state; the latter, the only one which ought and could make reparation, has in fact repaid this with the necessary recognition. What, then, is lacking to the church's liberty?"

Observatore continues that until now the Pontiff had his residence in the territory of the King of Italy, but that now he has his own territory and "will know well how to defend the church's liberty in the new order of things as he knew so well how to defend it during the captivity."

Pope Could Rule in Prison.
In concluding, Observatore cites the words of Leo XIII to a certain Cardinal, now deceased: "If even we should be obliged to finish in prison, we should not lose courage; in every cell of prisons, there is a stool and upon that stool the Pope would continue to govern the church."

Observatore then adds: "Nobody will want to say that Pius XI has prepared a narrower seat for himself than would have sufficed Leo XIII to reign still free amidst chains; no, Pius XI has been inflexible no less when a successor of Cavour and Lanza recognized and subscribed to with acts the great truth proclaimed by De Maistre. 'The Pope is born sovereign.'"

It was learned in Vatican circles today that opposition to the principles of "Rotary" has been withdrawn by the church authorities. Rotary Head Sees Churchmen.

The decision was reached after representations by J. D. Sutton of Tampico, Mex., president of Rotary International, in numerous consultations with ecclesiastical authorities. Sutton arrived in Rome Feb. 15.

Previously the consistorial congregation handed down an opinion that Catholic clergymen would not be allowed to belong to Rotary clubs. Not long before that, Observatore Romano decried the "negative" attitude of Rotary as regards religion.

It is understood that Sutton will communicate the decision to withdraw opposition, together with a complete statement of Rotary ideals and activities, which will be reprinted in full in Civiltà Cattolica, the Jesuit journal which launched the first attack against Rotary in Italy. Civiltà will state that in view of this communication, it no longer considers Rotary anti-Catholic.

K. of C. Tract Omitted.
Pope Pius, at the moment of approving the Italo-Vatican accord draft, cut out with a stroke of his pencil that part of the land on the left of the Vatican territory looking toward St. Peter's, which would have included the "holy office" and the oratory of St. Peter. The latter is a recreation ground maintained by the Knights of Columbus of the United States.

The pontiff explained that if he had accepted these tracts he would have acquired a number of "subjects" and he wished to do everything possible to avoid that. Had he accepted the two pieces of land, he would have had to allow there many families, including numerous children, from around the Vatican. There would have been several hundred such persons in all.

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 19.—William Crawford Anderson, Utah pioneer and noted art collector, died here yesterday. Mr. Crawford owned "The Raising of Lazarus," one of the five Titian paintings in the United States. The picture, valued at $100,000, was brought to America by Jerome Bonaparte, brother of Napoleon.

MOSCOW ORGAN CENSURES ANTI-SEMITIC OUTRAGES

Pravda Says "Conscientious Proletarian Masses" Oppose Attacks on Jews.
By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Feb. 19.—The official Communist organ, Pravda, today discusses editorially recent incidents indicating a new wave of anti-Semitism in some parts of the Soviet union. The editorial says: "The fight on anti-Semitism will be mightily supported by the conscientious proletarian masses. Anti-Semitism outrages in certain factories have called forth the workers' angry protests. The working masses instinctively scent class danger from anti-Semitism and they must be helped in the organized and planned fight against the disgusting old regime and anti-ward elements of soviet land's pro-letarian strongholds."

"If you want to keep slender (and who doesn't in these days) avoid sweets and smoke Lucky Strikes. There seems to be something about them; possibly the flavor, that satisfies the craving for the rich things that add weight.

"Voila! reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet—the trim figure is always fashionable. Advertisements that I saw when I recently arrived in America, said:—'The best way for sugar to be eaten is as a flavorer of foods'. They are quite correct in cautioning a modified use of sugar. Sweets to excess are bad. I advocate a few puffs of the Lucky Strike toasted flavor when sweets tempt.

"I may add that I smoke Lucky Strikes myself, and I think they have contributed much to the state of mind which has helped me to create my greatest successes.

"Lucky Strikes are certainly an inspiration!"

PAUL POIRET

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This surely confirms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

FLEEING DRIVER CAUGHT IN DOWNTOWN CHASE

Youth, in Stolen Auto, Has Three Collisions—Faces
Four Charges.

Charles R. King, 18 years old,
a cook, of 6981 Marquette avenue, was caught and turned over to police following several collisions in a stolen car in the downtown district at noon yesterday.

E. K. Potter, 279 Valley drive,
St. Louis County, and Herschel Groves, 5316 Pershing avenue, who caught King after a chase, related the following circumstances to police:

They were driving west in Olive street, when at Seventh street they saw a Ford coupe driven by King collide with a parked machine. They passed the Ford and at Ninth street the Ford caught up with them and bumped into their car. Both machines continued on to Eleventh street, where the Ford again collided with their car.

King then turned north Eleventh, followed by Potter and Groves in their machine. At Franklin avenue the Ford collided with a parked machine, and King jumped out and ran to Twelfth street, where he was caught.

At city hospital physician said he had been drinking. He is held charged with stealing the Ford, driving while intoxicated, careless driving and leaving the scenes of accidents.

The coupe driven by King is owned by Joseph Levin, 13 Lewis place, and was stolen from Fourth and Olive streets.

STORM HALTS EFFORT TO GET FOOD TO TWO MINING TOWNS

Workmen Cutting Way Through Snow to Silverton and Eureka, Colo., Fined to Stay Sheltered.
DURANGO, Colo., Feb. 19.—A raging snowstorm in Animas Canyon has caused suspension of the efforts of section crews to cut through snow slides to the isolated mining settlements of Silverton and Eureka, where 150 inhabitants are suffering from a food shortage.

A telephone message from Silverton this morning said Eureka's supply of meat, bread, butter and eggs had been exhausted for two days and that other provisions were low. Silverton had very little meat and no butter or eggs.

The workmen, who were forced to seek shelter from the storm last night, had expected to clear the last of the slides from the tracks of the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad by tomorrow so a supply train could be moved into Silverton from Durango. They estimated the storm would delay them at least a day.

The section crews, working day and night since Feb. 3, have penetrated the greatest slides at Needleton and Mile Post 488½ and only a few small ones remained when the storm broke.

CROSSING GATE WRECKED BY AUTO THIRD TIME IN TEN DAYS

No Lives Lost in Succession of Accidents at South Broadway and Missouri-Pacific Tracks.

For the third time in 10 days, an automobile crashed through the gates at the South Broadway crossing of the Missouri Pacific tracks today. As in the other two accidents, no lives were lost.

Thomas Pohlmann, 3670 Market street, a chauffeur for the Pevely Dairy Co., was unable to stop his milk truck this morning as he approached the tracks, although he saw a freight train rumbling over the crossing. The truck struck the train, causing damage to the truck estimated at $400 and injuring Pohlmann slightly.

Ernest Ellis, brakeman, who was riding in the caboose, jumped off to ascertain the extent of truck driver's injuries. The engineer, unaware of the accident and the loss of his brakeman, continued south. Pohlmann was treated at City Hospital and then taken to the Carondelet Police Station, charged with careless driving.

Last Feb. 10, two persons were injured when the automobile in which they were riding, crashed through the gates and struck a freight engine. Several days ago another driver drove through one of the gates and narrowly escaped being hit by a passenger train.

BROOKS CREDITS CITY'S PROGRESS TO THE MAYOR

Director of Streets and Sewers Cites Improvements Made Under the Present Administration.

The radio debate on the Republican primary continued last night, with Robert B. Brooks, Director of Streets and Sewers, and Mrs. W. T. Nardin, speaking for Mayor Miller, and Henry A. Kersting, former Associate City Counselor, advocating the nomination of former Mayor Kiel.

Director Brooks spoke over Station KWK. He said that, in the 12 years that Kiel served as Mayor, St. Louis dropped from fourth place among American cities to sixth or seventh. Civic meetings and dinners heard addresses on the theme, "What's the Matter With St. Louis?" He suggested continuance of the present arrangement, by which, he says, Mayor Miller does the work of Mayor Kiel, and the city departments at work, and Kiel is an "outstanding critic and co-worker."

"When Mayor Miller went into office four years ago," Brooks said, "the Department of Streets and Sewers was reorganized within six weeks at a saving of $70,000 a year. With an appropriation practically the same as the department had in 1914, when labor was $1.50 a day, we have still been able to give you better service without added cost. Street cleaning has increased. Street lighting has been improved. Street paving has been improved. Street cleaning has been improved. Street lighting has been improved. Street paving has been improved."

"At a meeting of street sanitation officials from all over the country held in St. Louis, they agreed that our downtown streets were cleaner than those of any other large American city."

Gives Miller Credit for Much.
Brooks proceeded to tell of the work of his department, listing these developments which he credited to the Miller administration:

Work of Traffic Advisory Committee for improvement of traffic conditions; installing safety landing platforms on Union boulevard, Page boulevard, Kingshighway and West Florissant avenue; creation of position of city traffic engineer; perfecting traffic signal system on Lindell boulevard and other thoroughfares; laying of enough street paving to reach from St. Louis to Jefferson City; building of 83 miles of sewers, particularly relief sewer to prevent future flooding of a northern district; perfecting noiseless manhole caps; eliminating special tax for sprinkling; motorizing street equipment; regular cleaning of inlets and basins, to prevent overflow; completion of Olive street widening to Channing avenue; beginning of new thoroughfare south of business district, and of new western highway; developing of river front plans; and replacement of wood block pavements with asphalt.

Kersting's Speech.
Kersting, speaking over Station WIL, said that Kiel had been to St. Louis a father, as Washington to his country. "We advocate his election," the speaker said, "because of his pre-eminence as a man and citizen, as a humanitarian and a lover of his fellow-citizens of all creeds, colors and classes, because of his constructive character as a statesman, who can point to the many wonderful accomplishments when he was Mayor, and because Kiel is ready, able and willing to secure for St. Louis a businesslike, sound and constructive administration of municipal affairs."

After repeating the 23 planks of Kiel's platform, Kersting listed 17 achievements of his 12-year period as Mayor. These included:

Municipal Opera; Twelfth street viaduct and four other viaducts; rebuilding Compton Hill reservoir and pipe line to Chain of Rocks; building training school for feeble-minded; Bellefontaine Farms, and Home for Girls; reconstructing City Sanitarium and Koch Hospital; completing Free Bridge; personally donating a radio set to Koch Hospital; park enlargements and improvements; replacement of brick sidewalks with granite; sanitary garbage reduction; aiding deep waterway campaign and Conventions Bureau; starting tree planting; starting construction of River des Peres improvement; starting installation of electric lights in parks; beginning important street widening; appointing and supporting City Plan Commission; advocating outer park system, "which he will complete when Mayor," and starting the litigation by which the city later obtained the bank tax settlement.

Mrs. Nardin Defends Deficit.
Mrs. Nardin, who is chairman of the women's division of the Miller campaign, made a super-time talk over Station KMOX. She took note of the charge that Mayor Miller has spent too much for the new courthouse. She cited the approval of the expenditures by the Comptroller, President of the Board of Aldermen and Citizens' Supervisory Committee.

"For the comparatively paltry sum of $500,000 should the Court of Appeals and the Law Library be housed outside of a $4,000,000 courthouse?" she asked. "Should our officials be penny-wise and pound-foolish? Our splendid corps of city architects, appointed but shortly before our present administration came into power, has a vision of a miracle city! The exquisite and inspiring structure of the Telephone Building, towering near the plaza, the courthouse of necessity must rear its stately head in like proportion! The very Judges themselves met in committee and urged the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to accede to the plans of the architects. That careful, impartial and excellent body, the Municipal Research Bureau, has set its stamp of approval upon this expenditure. Surely they cannot all be wrong."

Why There Is No Surplus.
"The intelligent citizen may remember that the present administration came in with a deficit of $225,000 in the treasury. But now we have a deficit of about $134,000 more! Oh yes! But we have one of the most efficiently equipped police buildings in the world, built out of the current revenue of the city at a cost of $2,700,000. And every well posted citizen knows that the police board, a State board, has the power by State law to make requisition on the city revenue to any amount which it deems proper, after 1 per cent of our municipal money has been appropriated for hospitals. This building, a necessity and a credit to our city, was instigated and built under the direction of our present Police Board. Were it not for this State expenditure over which the Mayor has no control, there would have been nearly a $2,000,000 surplus."

Circuit Attorney Refuses to Issue Warrant Against Mrs. Ida Stump.

Mrs. Ida A. Stump, 32 years old, 4363 Osceola street, was released from the observation ward of city hospital yesterday when the Circuit Attorney refused to issue a warrant charging her with attempted murder, based on her purported admissions to police that she had attempted to poison her husband, William F. Stump, a mechanic, 525 Shenandoah avenue, and that she had invited a neighbor to shoot Stump "accidentally."

The warrant was refused, police were informed, because of lack of corroborating evidence.

NEGRO, SHOT IN CHEST, CHASES ASSAILANT, GETS POLICEMAN
A difference of opinion over the honesty of certain dice resulted in Daniel Farmer, Negro, 2316 Hickory street, being shot and seriously wounded by John Givens, Negro, 3029 Hickory street, yesterday afternoon. Although shot in the chest, shooting being incidental.

Farmer chased Givens and then a policeman to arrest him. Farmer said he won a few dollars shooting dice—honest dice—but was held up by Givens and robbed of much more. However, said he discovered Farmer had won from him with crooked dice, so he held him up and recovered part of his losses. Shooting being incidental.

COMPLETE REPORT DEMANDED ON ALL STATE EXPENSES

Joint Senate and House Committee Says Information Is Desired for Budget Estimating.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 12.—Demand was made today upon every department, institution, bureau and commission in the State government by the joint Senate and House Committee, working on reorganization of the administration of State affairs, to furnish in minute detail every item of expense incurred during the past two years.

It is the first time in the history of the State that an attempt has been made to collect this information. The demand was made with the consent of Gov. Caulfield, and there is no question that the information will be forthcoming from departments under control of the Government. Whether all of the elective State officers will comply is doubtful, but Senator Cave, chairman of the committee, said he anticipated no hesitancy of meeting the demand of the committee.

The notice issued by the committee called upon the heads of all offices to furnish the following information:

The names of every employee on the rolls in the two-year period, the title of his position, his salary and his expense account.

A statement of the expense of the office in addition to salaries paid.

The number of automobiles purchased for each department, the time of purchase, the price paid, the purpose for which the automobiles are used and a detailed statement of the cost of their operation.

The amount paid by each department for printing.

Senator Cave said the committee considered the information necessary in its work in preparing bills to provide a budget system, for a central purchasing department and for a consolidation of related departments.

The notice is virtually certain to cause much consternation in some of the departments, where he demands of political workers for jobs has been met beyond all the requirements of the work of the office. Although the State each two years issues an official manual which is supposed to contain the names of all employees and their salaries, it has been customary for some of the officers to submit only a partial list of employees, and to conceal from general public information the names of many who are employed.

At a meeting of the Joint Committee last night there was a general agreement that the budget bill should provide for a new department to be known as the budget and revenue commission, to which would be delegated every budget making power possible under the Missouri Constitution, and which would have charge of the collection of the income, inheritance and corporation franchise taxes. The collections now are by different State agencies.

Senator Cave was authorized to divide the committee into three subcommittees of four members each. One of these will prepare the budget bill, another the consolidation bill and the other the central purchasing bill.

SIRENS TO REPLACE HORNS

ON 49 NEW POLICE AUTOS

Other Drivers Will Be Able to Distinguish Officers' Cars Better.

Chief Says.

Sirens will replace ordinary horns on 49 new automobiles recently bought by the Police Department, as a result of numerous complaints in Police Court that accidents have been narrowly averted because of inability of motorists to distinguish speeding police automobiles. Chief Gerk announced today.

While a city ordinance provides that sirens may be used only on fire equipment, Chief Gerk declared that bells were unsatisfactory and that a state law permitted sirens on police automobiles. Red and green lights are of no value in daytime and are invisible from a front because of the brighter headlights. Sirens have been used on some police cars in the past.

Twenty-one of the new automobiles are used by the Traffic Bureau when they patrol the city streets or serve as emergency cars. The others are used for emergency calls by the various districts.

43 BELOW AT BISMARCK, N. D.

Fifty-Year Record Broken in Dakota and Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 12.—Weather records of more than 50 years were broken in North Dakota and Minnesota cities today. Forty-three below zero at Bismarck, N. D., was the coldest ever recorded after Feb. 15 since the Federal Weather Bureau was established there more than 50 years ago. Mandan was close behind with 42 below.

In Minnesota, temperatures ranged from 6 below at Mankato. In the southern part of the State, to 14 below at Brainerd. In the central part, Little Falls in West Central Minnesota, had 25 below in St. Paul it was 22 below at 8 a. m. Slowly rising temperatures were reported.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS IN HOME FROM GAS, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Casper Twilliemer, 43, Discovered by Friend in Kitchen; Heater in Next Room Turned On. Casper Twilliemer, 43 years old, 4541 Pope avenue, died at Christian Hospital last night of gas poisoning. Twilliemer was found unconscious in the kitchen of his home yesterday morning by Louis Bader, 4123 Clarence avenue, a friend. Bader told police that he found a gas heater in a room adjoining the kitchen turned on, but not lighted. Twilliemer attempted to revive Twilliemer with an inhalator before he was removed to the hospital. Twilliemer was separated from his wife, according to police.

Drink Water If Back or Kidneys Hurt

Begin Taking Salts if You Feel Backache or Have Bladder Weakness

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or side, headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush out the body's uric waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful of fervent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

Alcock's is the original of all porous plasters, used by millions since 1847 for lumbago, rheumatism and colds. Breaks, soothes, cures and loosens. Old-fashioned—you can put one on and go anywhere. The medication lasts for days—where can you get such sure relief for so long a time for so little? Be sure to ask for—

Missouri Girl Amazes Mother

Constipation is one of the worst health-runners for children. Waste-matter held too long in their little stomachs and bowels forms poisons which pollute their blood, cause headaches, bad breath, coated tongue, indigestion; make them bilious, weak, sallow, fretful and underweight.

At the first sign of constipation give your child a little California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich, fruity flavor. It's purely vegetable, a gentle but certain laxative, and it gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels as they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

Thousands of Missouri mothers are praising it. Mrs. W. Phelps, 5006 Lindenwood Place, St. Louis, says: "My little girl, Patsy, had bile and a breaking-out all over her which I was told was due to constipation. Her breath was bad and she never wanted anything to eat. She was fretful, pale and sick. I was worried. Nothing seemed to help her until I got some California Fig Syrup. Her trouble stopped after the first few doses, and she began to be happy as ever, and she's been eating ever since."

Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is limited, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.

STEWART CHARGED WITH DECEIVING
U. S. OIL COUNSEL

Roberts and Pomerene Say
He Deliberately Misled
Them About Bonds of Continental Trading Co.

WANTED TO INDICT
HIM FOR PERJURY

Statute of Limitations Prevented That Action, Lawyers Assert—Accused of
"Rank Subterfuge."

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-
Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Owen J. Roberts and Alice Pomerene, who concluded the prosecutions for the Government in the famous oil trial, declared here today that Robert W. Stewart, head of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, deliberately deceived them about his knowledge of the Liberty bonds distributed by the Continental Trading Co., and that he withheld all information that would have assisted the Government in the prosecution of Harry F. Sinclair.

Pomerene added that Stewart's testimony before the grand jury investigating the Sinclair case was such that Government counsel would have sought his indictment on a perjury charge if the statute of limitations had not expired before they learned the truth.

Not only did Stewart deceive them about his knowledge of who got the Continental bonds, Roberts and Pomerene said, but he avoided testifying in the Government's civil suit to recover the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve, subsequently having the excuse that he "wasn't looking for trouble."

Profits From Dummy Concern.
As has often been told, the Continental was a dummy corporation secretly organized to buy a large quantity of oil from A. E. Humphreys, a Texas operator. It paid Humphreys $1.50 for oil, then sold it at $1.75 a barrel to companies controlled by Stewart, Sinclair and James E. O'Neill. All the profit of more than $5,000,000 thus realized was retained in Liberty bonds and divided between Stewart, Sinclair, O'Neill and Harry M. Blackmer. Sinclair afterward used a part of his share in bribing Secretary Fall for the Teapot Dome lease, an act which ultimately led to the exposure of the whole transaction.

Stewart's participation in the profits had not been disclosed when he appeared last year before a Senate investigating committee. When asked if he knew who got the bonds, he declined to answer. He based his refusal on the ground that he had been summoned as a witness for the Government in the criminal trial of Sinclair, then pending, and had been interrogated by the Government counsel. He said he considered it his duty "as a citizen" to reserve his information for the court, instead of giving it to the committee.

A similar defense of his refusal to testify on the ground that he expected to testify in the Sinclair trial also was contained in a statement recently issued by Stewart to the stockholders of the Standard of Indiana, in the course of his fight with John D. Rockefeller Jr. over control of that company.

Says Stewart Withheld Facts.
Roberts and Pomerene, who are here to argue a case before the Supreme Court, today had their attention called to Stewart's statements. They were asked whether Stewart, prior to the Sinclair trial, had divulged to them his knowledge of the Continental bond transaction.

"He did not," was Roberts' emphatic reply. "On the contrary, he told us he didn't know anything about it. We asked him who was interested in the Continental, and he said he didn't know. We asked him who got the bonds, and he said he didn't know. We got out of him as a refusal to give us any information that would be of any help to us in preparing the case against Sinclair. His pretense before the Senate committee that he had given us the facts about the matter was a rank subterfuge."

"It was worse than that," declared Pomerene. "He deliberately hid everything in his power to prevent the Government from obtaining the facts for the Government in its preparation of the case which is almost in the hands of the Government. The information was in his possession concerning the distribution of these bonds would have been materially helpful to the Government's case. He did not disclose a word of it. He said he didn't know who got the bonds. I asked him if he had any theory about who got them, and he replied that he had always suspected that Humphreys got them."

STEWART CHARGED WITH DECEIVING U. S. OIL COUNSEL

He Deliberately Misled
Them About Bonds of Continental Trading Co.

WANTED TO INDICT HIM FOR PERJURY

vented That Action, Lawyers Assert—Accused of
"Rank Subterfuge."

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-
Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Owen J. Roberts and Alton Pomerene, who concluded the prosecutions for the Government in the famous oil trial, declared here today that they had decided to ask the United States District Court to issue a subpoena for Robert W. Stewart, head of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, to testify before the grand jury investigating the case. They said that Stewart had been indicted for perjury in the case, but that the statute of limitations prevented the Government from bringing the case to trial.

Pomerene added that Stewart's testimony before the grand jury investigating the Sinclair case was such that Government counsel would have sought his indictment for perjury charge if the statute of limitations had not expired before they learned the truth.

Not only did Stewart deceive them about his knowledge of who owned the Continental bonds, Roberts and Pomerene said, but he avoided testifying in the Government's civil suit to recover the Teapot Dome oil reserve, subsequently giving the excuse that he "wasn't looking for trouble."

Profits From Dummy Concern.
As has often been told, the Continental was a dummy corporation secretly organized to hold a large quantity of oil from A. E. Humphreys, a Texas operator. It paid Humphreys $1.50 for oil, then sold it at $1.75 a barrel to companies controlled by Stewart, Sinclair and James E. O'Neill. All the profit of more than $2,000,000 thus realized was invested in Liberty bonds and divided between Stewart, Sinclair, O'Neill and Harry M. Blackmer.

Blackmer afterward used a part of his share in bribing Secretary Fall for the Teapot Dome lease, an act which ultimately led to the exposure of the whole transaction.

Stewart's participation in the profits had not been disclosed when he appeared last year before a Senate investigating committee. When asked if he knew who got the oil, he declined to answer. He based his refusal on the ground that he had been summoned as a witness for the Government in the trial of Sinclair, then pending, had testified before the grand jury, and had been indicted by the Government counsel.

He said he considered it his duty "as a citizen" to reserve his information for the court, instead of giving it to the committee.

A similar defense of his refusal to testify "on the ground that he expected to testify in the Sinclair trial" also was contained in a statement recently issued by Stewart to the stockholders of the Standard of Indiana in the course of his fight with John D. Rockefeller Jr. over control of that company.

Says Stewart Withheld Facts.
Roberts and Pomerene, who are now to argue a case before the Supreme Court, today had their attention called to Stewart's statement. They were asked whether Stewart, prior to the Sinclair trial, had divulged to them his knowledge of the Continental bond transaction.

"He did not," was Roberts' emphatic reply. "On the contrary, he said to us he didn't know anything about it. We asked him who was interested in the Continental, and he said he didn't know. We asked him who got the bonds, and he said he didn't know. We asked him who got out of him was a refusal to give us any information that would be of any help to us in preparing the case against Sinclair. His presence before the Senate committee was before the fact that he had given us the facts about the matter was a rank subterfuge."

"It was worse than that," declared Pomerene. "He deliberately misled everything in his power to avoid the trial. For Stewart to stand before the Government in the trial of Sinclair, then pending, and to make a statement of that kind is an exhibition of brass which is almost incredible. The information was in his possession concerning the disposition of these bonds would have been materially helpful to the Government's case. He did not disclose a word of it. He said he didn't know who got the bonds."

He said he suspected Humphreys, turned to this country a few days before the case was called, and was in New York. When they demanded to know why he had not apprehended them of the fact, he replied, Pomerene said, that he "wasn't looking for trouble."

It will be recalled that John D. Rockefeller Jr., in his testimony before the Senate committee, related that he, too, had asked Stewart if he knew who got the proceeds of the Continental deal, and that Stewart had refused to tell, again giving as his reason the fact that he had been summoned as a witness in the Sinclair case, and was determined to reserve the facts for that occasion.

In giving to the Senate committee his reasons for refusing to testify to his knowledge of who got the Continental bonds, or whether he had ever discussed the transaction with Sinclair, Stewart said: "I am a witness in a case which is now pending between the Government and some defendants (Sinclair and Fall). I have been interrogated on the subjects by counsel appearing to represent the United States in that case, along with lines which make me think that the issues in that case are the same ones you are attempting to interrogate me about here."

World's Unusual Cold Weather Attributed to Many Outbursts Of Air Currents From Arctic

Forecaster Explains Causes for Record Low Temperatures Over Europe and Below
Normal Readings in U. S.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-
Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Unusual weather conditions throughout the upper Mississippi Valley and the almost unprecedented low temperatures now prevailing in Europe are the subjects of close attention by Government and other meteorologists here, who are seeking an explanation for one of the most remarkable winters in recent centuries.

Weather Bureau experts and civilian meteorologists, who are often at odds regarding forecasting methods, are agreed that the conditions in the eastern and western hemispheres are the result of the same causes, namely, the constant reformation of high pressure areas by outbursts of arctic air currents.

Charles L. Mitchell, principal forecaster for the Weather Bureau, with the aid of numerous meteorological maps, pointed out that 15 high pressure areas had been formed in January over Alaska and Northwestern Canada by polar air outbursts, two or three times the normal number.

Cites High Pressure Areas.
"These high pressure areas, which brought with them lower temperatures in the northwestern section of the hemisphere, were balanced by low pressure areas in the Southern States and over the Gulf of Mexico," Mitchell said. "As these high pressure areas shifted from north to south, temperatures dropped and caused a most unusual January."

"At St. Louis the temperature for January was four degrees below normal. In Wisconsin and the Dakotas the temperature was 12 degrees below the January average."

"In some of the Northwestern states the temperatures for certain weeks in January were as much as 20 degrees below normal. A drop of 20 degrees in a single day is not unusual, but when such low temperatures obtain for a week, it is most amazing."

"The formation and reformation of 15 high-pressure areas over Alaska and Northwestern Canada in January meant a new area every two days. The usual number of new areas is three to six a month. When the number is low there is a variation in the weather. With 15, however, the cold north wind, caused by the air rushing from a high-pressure area in the North to a low-pressure area in the South, was virtually constant."

Wide Area of Ice Sheets.
"The low temperatures were decreased further by the fact that most of the area from Alaska to the upper middle of the United States has been covered with snow and ice. The snow-covered ground caused a great variation between day and night temperatures, thus increasing the high pressure, and we had something of a vicious circle, the high-pressure areas causing the snow, and the snow causing higher pressure."

"Our data from Europe are meager, and I should not like to generalize on conditions obtaining over there. It appears, however, that Europe is suffering from a few extensive and long-lived high-pressure areas rather than from many frequent ones, such as we have seen in the Middle West."

Mitchell had before him the meteorological maps made from observations of European conditions sent by radio from the cruiser Raleigh, stationed in the Mediterranean. The thermometer and barometer lines, however, extended only a short distance into Russia, and the large area of Siberia was blank.

and that the Continental was rigged up by Humphreys to gouge the buyers of the oil out of an extra 25 cents a barrel.

"He completely deceived us about his own connection with the matter. We were astounded when we learned later that he had received $750,000 of the bonds, and I don't mind telling you that if three years had not expired since his testimony before the grand jury, we would have asked for the indictment of that gentleman on a charge of perjury."

When the Government filed suit in the United States District Court of Wyoming to recover the Teapot Dome reserve from Sinclair, Stewart was summoned as a witness. Later the trial was postponed, and it was necessary to subpoena the witness again. There was some delay about when Stewart, in compliance of which a United States Marshal at Chicago was discharged by President Coolidge. When the difficulty was discovered, Stewart had gone to South America. He turned to learn his address from his Chicago office was unsuccessful, and the case was tried without his presence.

Stewart Stayed Out of Case.
Roberts and Pomerene learned afterward that Stewart had returned to this country a few days before the case was called, and was in New York. When they demanded to know why he had not

"The present conditions in Europe have prevailed for a comparatively long time," Mitchell said. "Just now we have a very high pressure area over Europe, bounded on three sides by low pressure areas over the middle Atlantic, the Mediterranean and Iceland."

"The low pressure area over the Mediterranean 'pulled down' the cold wind from the North, and Thursday the temperature was 18 degrees above zero at Genoa, an unprecedented figure there."

"Weather conditions in Europe are much more stable than conditions in this country or Canada. The two principal outlets for the outbursts of polar air are the Mackenzie Basin, just east of northern Alaska, and over Spitzbergen, to the north of Norway. For some reason unknown to us, this year there have been more outbursts on the American than on the European side."

When asked what caused the polar outbursts, Mitchell said that very little was known about the phenomena. He pointed out that only during recent years had the Weather Bureau had observations from Alaska and northern Canada, and that there was still a great deal to learn about polar currents. He also said that he did not know how much longer the unusual weather would continue.

Herbert Janvin Browne, a "long distance weather forecaster" who has built up a business by predicting weather conditions months in advance, said that he had turned his clients as early as last March that Europe would suffer from unprecedented cold winter this year, and that last summer he foretold the low temperatures now obtaining in the Middle West. Browne has his predictions on "solar radiation" and the movement of ocean currents.

His hypothesis is that the amount of heat the earth receives from the sun varies, and that this variation is reflected in the varying temperatures of the ocean currents, which in turn are responsible for land weather conditions.

"The causes of the prevailing conditions are definitely known," Browne declared. "It is time for the Weather Bureau to admit that it has been overlooking a vast amount of data which have been secured by other meteorologists."

Predicted "Old-Time Winter."
"Since 1922, the solar radiation has been increasing slowly but steadily. This increase has been absorbed by the oceans. It takes from three to five years for these warmer currents to have their effects on Europe and North America. I predicted several years ago that we would soon see the return of the old-fashioned winter. My pamphlets, printed last March, foretold the unprecedented cold wave now in Europe."

"The cold wave in Europe is caused by the massing of Arctic ice on the Siberian coast, while the low temperatures of the Middle West are caused by similar formations on the northern coast of North America. The drift of the warmer ocean currents caused two compulsions to work together and form high and low pressure areas which resulted in sustained low temperatures both in Europe and in the United States and Canada."

"The outbursts of Arctic air are only a part of the causations. The varying and shifting ocean currents play an equally important part. Until the Weather Bureau recognizes this fact, it will never be able to explain the simplest phenomena."

apprehended them of the fact, he replied, Pomerene said, that he "wasn't looking for trouble."

It will be recalled that John D. Rockefeller Jr., in his testimony before the Senate committee, related that he, too, had asked Stewart if he knew who got the proceeds of the Continental deal, and that Stewart had refused to tell, again giving as his reason the fact that he had been summoned as a witness in the Sinclair case, and was determined to reserve the facts for that occasion.

In giving to the Senate committee his reasons for refusing to testify to his knowledge of who got the Continental bonds, or whether he had ever discussed the transaction with Sinclair, Stewart said: "I am a witness in a case which is now pending between the Government and some defendants (Sinclair and Fall). I have been interrogated on the subjects by counsel appearing to represent the United States in that case, along with lines which make me think that the issues in that case are the same ones you are attempting to interrogate me about here."

"The Government is entitled, and the defendants are entitled, to know such questions as they desire upon the trial of this case, and it is to be left to a Judge learned in the law to decide upon the propriety of such questions."

TROTZKY'S FAMILY GETS PERMIT TO LIVE IN GERMANY

Government Expected to Approve Appeal of Former Red Army Head, Seeking Refuge in Exile.

MESSAGE IS SENT TO CABINET FOR ACTION

Consulate in Constantinople Ordered to Inquire Into Authenticity of the Request.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—It is understood that the German Government already has granted permission to Leon Trotsky, former head of the Red army, now in exile, to reside in Germany, provided he undertakes to abstain from all political activity and lead a quiet retired life.

Paul Loebe, president of the Reichstag, yesterday received this message from Pera, a suburb of Constantinople:

"Referring your memorial speech in Reichstag on Feb. 2, I request German Consulate here to give permission in question. (Signed) 'LEON TROTZKY.'"

The reference was to a speech of Loebe's in which he said, after an interruption by Communists: "We were first to give you and others full civil rights. Perhaps some day we shall grant free asylum here in Germany to Mr. Trotsky."

Herr Loebe sent the message to the Cabinet with a recommendation for favorable action.

Even before the arrival of Trotsky in Constantinople it was said the Government had been approached by the Communists for a visa might be obtained for Trotsky to enter Germany, possibly to reside in a suburb of Berlin where he, it is said, wishes to write his memoirs.

Trotsky Seriously Ill.
More or less by coincidence the admission of Trotsky, who is understood to be held a prisoner, seriously ill, in the Russian Consulate in the Pera quarter of Constantinople, came up at yesterday's session of the Reichstag.

Communists submitted an amendment to a proposed bill on extradition which would make extradition against the authority of the Soviet Government a political offense and hence extraditable.

Socialists immediately pointed out that, if Trotsky found a home here, Russia might be able to extradite him if desired. Erich Koch, Minister of Justice, declared the German Government would not be a party to such a one-sided attitude as the amendment.

Moscow dispatches yesterday gave first official announcement of Trotsky's exile. The announcement did not state where the former head of the Red army had gone, merely saying that, by a decision of the State Political Department, he had been exiled from the Soviet Union for his anti-Soviet activities and that in accordance with his wishes his family had gone with him.

Russia Press Makes Only Brief Mention of Trotsky's Exile.
By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Feb. 19.—Having sent Leon Trotsky off definitely as an "anti-Soviet emigre," there appears a general disposition on the part of the authorities to make little of his exile, in the hope of letting time and short memories consign him to oblivion. The brief official statement yesterday announcing his exile was published this morning obscurely in the "Event" columns of the papers in which various Governmental decisions of secondary importance are summarized.

Trotsky Government Admits Trotsky Is in Constantinople.
By the Associated Press.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 19.—The Turkish Government today broke through the clouds of mystery which have been surrounding the whereabouts of Leon Trotsky by issuing the first official statement concerning him since his arrival here, confirming by implication his presence in Constantinople.

The statement was released to the evening newspapers through the official agency D'Anatolie.

The assurance of the consulate of the statement that Trotsky had telegraphed from Constantinople to the president of the German Reichstag a request that the German Consulate here be instructed to give him a German visa.

The assurance of the Turkish Government in throwing light upon the Trotsky situation is interpreted in some quarters as expressing its own ardent hope that its "white elephant" be shipped to other shores.

Biddle Street—An Entry in Post-Dispatch Art Competition

A CRAYON sketch by Paul J. Weisler, one of the many exhibits in the annual "Black and White" show at the Artists' Guild.

Old St. Louis Scenes Prominent In Black-and-White Competition

Views of River Des Peres, Hop Alley and Tony Faust's Among Entries on Display at Artists' Guild.

Artists seeking to express best a St. Louis scene in black and white hurried by those stark architectural precursors of the new order, the Telephone and Civil Courts buildings, just as the ordinary St. Louisan has learned to do, and hurried by the remote sections for scenes in the annual competition sponsored by the Post-Dispatch at the Artists' Guild.

Sketch books recorded scenes in Hop Alley, Biddle Market, along the Meramec River; Gamble playground, brick kilns under Kings-highway viaduct, River Des Peres, downtown St. Louis from the air, Eleventh and Biddle, the faded glory of Tony Faust's and little known corners in the parks. Even studies of individual trees were attempted.

But the old standbys were not neglected, for there are on display numerous views and concepts of the two bizarre giants of the downtown skyline, as well as of the new and old cathedrals, Temple Israel, Washington and St. Louis Universities and Christ Church Cathedral. The river front is widely portrayed. Industrial scenes again came in for their share of attention, also. But the entries nevertheless show a drift away from these subjects and toward a greater diversity of topics.

Three Prizes To Be Awarded.
Among the exhibits are oil paintings, etchings, pencil sketches, water colors and pen and ink drawings. Three prizes of $250, $100 and $50 will be awarded for the three best works, as adjudged by three artists who will be chosen by the director of the Chicago Art Institute. The judges will announce the awards at a dinner March 2.

Public exhibition of the entries started Saturday and will continue until March 15. The Artists' Guild, Union boulevard and Enright avenue, is open week days, except Tuesday, from 1 to 5 p. m., and on Sunday from 3 to 5 p. m.

The competition is the fifth of its kind and all four previous first prize winners are again contestants. E. S. Campbell, winner last year, is represented by two pencil sketches. A view of activity at a garbage dump on the river front and a humorous impression of the reaction of a movie fan to the new Fox Theater.

Oscar Thalinger, 1927 winner, has entered two oil paintings, a view of the Civil Courts building from Laclede's statue west of the City Hall and one of public library square.

Fred Conway, winner in 1926, has entered three large pencil sketches of a downtown scene, the levee under Eads Bridge and Soudard Market.

First Winner Submits Etchings.
A group of etchings, depicting such diversified scenes as public playgrounds, Eads Bridge and steel pouring, has been submitted by C. K. Gleason, who won the first black and white competition in 1925.

One of the most striking works in the exhibition is an oil painting, by Charles A. Morgenthaler, of a Ford tri-motor monoplane flying over the downtown section. Morgenthaler also has a painting of a sternwheeler on the Mississippi. Miss Cornelia Maury is represented by a group of three small oil paintings of old-fashioned houses with iron balconies, and Victor Kunz, with 19 entries, has portrayed the deserted building which was once Tony Faust's. Bevo Mill, Hop Alley, Biddle Market and other scenes.

A group of pencil sketches of Forest Park, the zoo and Meramec River scenes is the work of Carl Vogt.

CROWN JEWELS OF CATHERINE II OFFERED FOR SALE

Widow of Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia the Seller.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—The Daily Mail says that two famous jewels from the imperial Russian Treasury are being offered for sale in London, but this time not by the Bolsheviks.

They are the property of the widow of Grand Duke Nicholas. The Grand Duchess is a sister of the Queen of Italy and it was from the Italian court the two gems were brought to England with a request to Commander Locker Lampson, M. P., a friend of the Grand Duke, to assist in their disposal.

The gems originally belonged to the Empress Catherine. One is a 15-carat rose diamond for which it is said the late Emperor Nicholas refused an offer of $150,000 ($725,000). The other is a 15-carat emerald. The paper says the Grand Duchess wants between $242,000 and $290,000 for the jewels.

The Grand Duke and his wife after exile from Russia with the success of the Red revolution were forced to maintain their small residence and semblance of a court with proceeds from occasional sales of jewels which they were able to carry away with them.

FIRST CHINESE AIRMAIL ROUTE FORMALLY OPENED

Gen. W. J. Chang Leaves Canton for Peking in American-Made Craft.

By the Associated Press.

CANTON, China, Feb. 19.—Gen. W. J. Chang this morning started a flight to Peking, in the extreme south of Kwangtung Province, inaugurating the first air mail service of the Canton Government. The distance to Peking is about 600 miles. Chang will then fly to Kiungchow on the island of Hainan, about 125 miles.

Chang, popularly called the Lindbergh of China, made a good flight through China last November and December in the first American airplane imported. He is using a Ryan-Mahoney airplane. The service is to be expanded in all directions from Canton as soon as additional airplanes are received from the United States.

For Freight Train Radio Phones.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The New York Central Railroad today asked the Radio Commission for permission to institute a radio telephone service between the crews in the locomotives and those in the cabooses of its freight trains. E. C. Keenan, general superintendent of telephones and telegraph for the New York Central lines, told the commission that such communication would be of extreme value in promoting the efficient and safe operation of freight trains and expediting the handling of freight.

THREE MEN ADDED TO SUBCOMMITTEE

Young Evolves Method for Avoiding Haggling Over
Terms—Will Help
Reich's Productivity.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 19.—The subcommittee appointed by the Reparations Commission to find a method of procedure for the future work of the experts has run into a snag. Consequently, it has been enlarged and has been told to try again.

When the committee, which consisted of Sir Josiah Stamp of Great Britain and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the German Reichsbank, reported this morning, the members said that they had failed to find a mutually acceptable procedure. The full committee then appointed three more members, and the five went to session this afternoon to see what they could do.

The newly appointed members were Jean V. Parmentier of France, Prof. Suvitch of Italy and M. Gutt of Belgium. The subcommittee was asked to determine ways to enable both the debtor and creditors in the reparations account to submit an offer and put in claims that might form a groundwork for a settlement of the committee's further deliberations.

PARIS, Feb. 19.—Owen D. Young, chairman of the Committee of Experts, has evolved a method of approach to the reparations problem by which out and out bargaining as to the total of Germany's obligations and the terms upon which they are to be liquidated can be avoided.

This method of negotiation, sponsored by the head of the American delegation, is designed to eliminate the necessity for haggling over figures with the definite proposals of Germany and the counter-proposals of its creditors. The keynotes of the plan is evolution of a plan by which Germany can be helped to increase its productivity to assure it a trade balance sufficiently favorable to enable it to meet the reparations demands of the allies over a long period. The outline of how such a plan would work is available; but it is known that its salient points were the basis for the discussions of the experts at this morning's session of the committee.

Committee to Frame Report.
After going over a few minor points as to Germany's economic strength it was decided to appoint a subcommittee to frame a report embodying the information the delegates must have when they finally take up the vital issues, the amount of the annuities and the length of time over which payment of them must be continued.

It is hoped in this way to eliminate the conflict between the report of S. Parker Gilbert Jr., agent-general for reparations, on Germany's paying capacity and the interpretation placed upon his figures by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank and head of the German delegation.

In this way it might be possible to avoid haggling over Germany's paying capacity and the interpretation placed upon his figures by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsb

MYSTERY IN DEATH OF TEXAS REPORTER

Body of Harry Williams, Missing a Month, Found in Rio Grande.

LAREDO, Tex., Feb. 19.—Another mystery of the Mexican border confronts officers seeking an explanation of the death of Harry Williams, 24 years old, Laredo newspaper man, who disappeared Jan. 19.

Williams' body, bearing no evidence of the manner in which he met death, was found yesterday in the Rio Grande. Physicians said the fact that no water was in his lungs made it certain he was placed in the river when dead.

A theory which the officers were inclined to accept was that the reporter was killed by smugglers because of the knowledge he had obtained as to their operations. Authorities at Washington have been asked to send officers across the border into Mexico to make investigation.

Williams left his hotel here at 1 a. m., Jan. 19, after he and a friend had returned from Neuva Laredo across the border. He was coatless and hatless and was known to have had only 39 cents in his pockets.

Upon his failure to return, friends were alarmed and began a private search. Later they notified authorities and eventually the United States government ordered the hundreds of patrol and immigration officers along the Rio Grande to join the hunt.

Williams came here from Muncie, Ind., his home, about six weeks before his disappearance and joined the staff of the Laredo Times. He had been employed on a Muncie newspaper two and a half years.

CONVICTED OF $53,000 HOLDUP
Two Men and Woman Found Guilty of Texas Train Robbery.

PORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 19.—Two men and a woman were convicted by a jury in Federal court today of robbery and conspiracy to rob in connection with the $53,000 holdup of a mail car on a Texas & Pacific train near here last Nov. 9. Those convicted were Travis H. Wilson, who admitted carrying out the holdup; M. H. Pruitt, mail clerk of the robbed car, and Mrs. Otis Bridges. Sentence will be passed later by the court. Wilson testified that he and the mail clerk "framed" the robbery, and that Mrs. Bridges was an accomplice.

Pruitt was sentenced to five years in prison. Wilson got two years and Mrs. Bridges 18 months.

COOLIDGE SIGNS NORBECK BILL FOR BIRD SANCTUARIES

Measure Provides System of National Habitats for Migratory Fowl and Game Animals.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—A national system of places where migratory birds may feed, rest and breed, unmolested, in marshy and woodland areas, is provided in the bill signed yesterday by President Coolidge.

It is the contribution of the United States to an agreement with Canada to lessen the dangers threatening the rapid extinction of the continent's birds and results from the place of conservationists for nearly 12 years that Congress enacted this legislation.

In every state of the union and in Alaska, one or more of the natural woodland sanctuaries will be created for game fowl and migratory birds under the program which is estimated to be completed in 10 years.

Protects Game Animals.
As a matter of fact, the measure goes beyond migratory birds since it would naturally follow that wild animals of all kinds will live unmolested in these sanctuaries. Not only ducks, geese and others, classed as game, will be protected, but also smaller birds that have made themselves essential to the agricultural interests by eating insects.

Fathered in Congress by Senator Norbeck of South Dakota, the measure represents the combined efforts of a number of wild life enthusiasts in and out of the national legislature. Considerable contribution to the actual wording of the bill was given by Representative Andrus of Minnesota.

The conservationists have felt great alarm at the rapidly disappearing marsh areas which have been depriving birds of their natural habitat. The fear has been held by them that, unless suitable water and marsh areas are maintained, the birds will gradually disappear despite the recent increased restrictions placed upon hunting.

The measure also represents an unusual digression from the prevalent opinion that all drainage of water of marsh lands is a public benefit. Conservationists have convinced the Department of Agriculture that, under proper conditions, marshy lands will contribute financially to much more advantage than had they been turned to agricultural purposes by providing a valuable supply of game fish, a substantial return from the furs of beaver, muskrats, skunks and raccoons, grasses used for forage and for the manufacture of grass rugs and in holding off flood waters and in preventing excessive erosion.

By the terms of the new act, a commission would be created consisting of the Secretaries of Agriculture, Commerce and Interior, two members of the Senate and two of the House. They would be charged with selecting suitable sanctuaries, working in co-operation with the state authorities. The first year's work would be devoted principally to an exhaustive survey with the actual designation of the sanctuaries to follow in successive years.

In his will Dr. Sluder left six one hundred and fifties of his estate to each of the sons, Harry V. Arthur G. and John Cochrane Sluder, and the balance to his widow, Mrs. Ella Sluder, who is named one of the executors.

COOLIDGE AGAIN TO LIVE IN HOUSE THAT RENTS FOR $42

It Has Six Rooms and Has Been His Home Since His Marriage.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Feb. 19.—Northampton is agog over the fact that President Coolidge and his wife are to occupy their own home on Massachusetts street after March 4. It is a six-room flat for which the President pays $12 a month. This has been the home of Mr. Coolidge since his marriage to Grace Goodhue in 1905.

For several years Mrs. Coolidge's mother, Mrs. Lemna Goodhue, occupied the flat and since Mrs. Goodhue's illness and removal to Dickinson hospital, more than a year ago, Mrs. Alice Rackham, the Coolidge housekeeper, has occupied the place alone.

Not a thing has been done toward redecorating the rooms. The attic is filling up with the many cases that are being shipped from the White House.

One thing is sure, the Coolidges will have a royal welcome when they return. When that will be no one knows. The President's roll top desk is being held for him in his old office now occupied by R. W. Hemmenway, his former law partner.

72-YEAR-OLD MAN FIGHTS OFF NEGRO ROBBER IN STORE
Sam Tecklin, Merchant, Beats and Disarms Intruder Who Makes Escape.

A young Negro walked into the clothing shop of Sam Tecklin, 1317 North Jefferson avenue, yesterday, and pointing a revolver at Tecklin, ordered: "Give me your money."

Tecklin, who is 72 years old, struck the Negro in the face, and at the same time seized the Negro's weapon. The Negro struck Tecklin and knocked him to the floor.

Tecklin scrambled to his feet and started for the Negro, who was running to the door. Tecklin chased him two blocks, but the Negro got away. Tecklin then reported the holdup attempt to police.

"I'm sorry he got away," he said, "but I can't run so fast like I used to."

DRUG LAW CHARGES AGAINST DR. T. A. MARTIN ARE DROPPED
Physician, 72, Said to Have Issued 3000 Prescriptions, Pays $250 as Compromise.

Charges of violating the Harrison narcotic law, brought against Dr. T. A. Martin, 72-year-old physician, arrested last August after he had issued, according to narcotic agents, approximately 3000 prescriptions for drugs, were dropped today.

Federal J. Lee Farris approved a compromise offer, made by Dr. Martin's attorney, Lon O. Hocker, by which the doctor surrendered his permit to issue narcotic prescriptions, and paid the Government $250. Dr. Martin was discharged on his $10,000 bond. He was never indicted.

The compromise offer was first submitted by Hocker to the Department of Internal Revenue, and approved because of Dr. Martin's advanced age, which made him mentally irresponsible, Hocker contended.

UDELL EXPLAINS WHY HE IS FOR KIEL

Alderman, for Miller Four Years Ago, Charges Mim With Extravagance.

Extravagance with which he charged Mayor Miller's administration is the reason given by Alderman Udehl of the Twenty-third Ward for supporting former Mayor Kiel for the Republican majority nomination.

Udehl, who is seeking the Republican nomination for Alderman to succeed himself, has been speaking at political meeting in Kiel's behalf. He has been a member of the Board of Aldermen since it was established in 1915 and was on the Board of Freeholders that drafted the city charter.

In issuing a statement by Udehl, Kiel's headquarters said: "Four years ago Udehl led the Miller campaign in the Twenty-third Ward, fought his own committeeman, William Maffitt Bates, and won the nomination by a vote of 26,728 to 26,159." Now he is opposing Committeeman Reno, who is chief boiler and elevator inspector for the city. Udehl's statement follows:

"The outrageous extravagance of the present city administration forced me to switch from Miller to Kiel. For illustration, here are some definite figures that I gathered at City Hall: It required 92 employees to handle 65 patients in the Isolation Hospital in 1927-28. Under Kiel in 1922-23, they took care of 57 patients with 25 employees, operating cost $30,281.

"At Bellefontaine Farms the cost per inmate has jumped from $708 under Kiel to $858 under Miller. At City Hospital the cost per patient has increased from $419 under Kiel to $590 under Miller.

"Nobody objects to proper provision for these people and it also must be admitted that the higher cost of living cuts some figure in the upkeep of our city institutions, but why is it necessary to have 92 employees hired to handle only 65 patients at the Isolation Hospital? The cost per patient at that institution has jumped from $531 under Kiel to $1320 under Miller.

"The voters of St. Louis elected me to the Board of Aldermen first in 1915. I was re-elected in 1917, 1921 and 1925 and I hope to be re-elected in April, despite the fact that Committeeman Reno has slain another person for the job. Fortunately the voters of the city at large will decide the matter and I am willing to abide by their verdict."

PIERCE-ARROW TURNS ANOTHER PAGE IN FINE CAR HISTORY

HERE will be no departure from those fine ideals and practices which have always been Pierce-Arrow." This statement, made a few months ago by A. R. Erskine, chief executive of the newly expanded Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company, finds magnificent corroboration in today's new Pierce-Arrow Straight Eight line.

Lower in height than preceding models, the new Straight Eights have more head-room than ever before. And the wheel-bases are longer. One group measures 133 inches. The other, the custom group, is 10 inches longer. All are equally powered—125 horsepower, yielding 85 miles an hour—the fleetest, most powerful cars that were ever Pierce-Arrows and arriving at the psychological moment.

Pierce-Arrow mechanical detail embraces every device of proved character known to the engineering of fine motor cars.

Suffered for Fifteen Years With Painful Joints Gives Weldon Tablets Credit for Recovery
Every day is a busy day for the representative, who is meeting the public at Walgreen's Drug Store, 514 Washington Ave., where he gives a talk on rheumatic conditions and how to avoid them. He has many strong supporters in this city, and among those who were sore and painful and it was almost impossible for me to go up or down stairs. My arms and shoulders were sore and stiff.
"I have lived in St. Louis for forty-eight years, and before taking Weldon tablets I could hardly walk because of the pain in my knees. I had tried several remedies but nothing seemed to reach my case until I obtained Weldon tablets. In a few weeks I felt so much better that I was able to walk eight or ten miles. I can now climb stairs without discomfort and feel like a new man. If anyone wishes to know more about my case I would be glad to have them call or write."
$1000 reward to anyone proving this testimonial is not genuine.
Weldon tablets are always put up in a box—never in a bottle. Weldon tablets are recommended for rheumatism and rheumatic conditions only. Weldon tablets are absolutely harmless and will not upset the stomach, affect the heart or any other organ.
The Weldon representative, who now meets the public every day at Walgreen's Drug Store, 514 Washington Ave., St. Louis, gladly explains more about this remedy and gives out the 24-page fully illustrated and interesting book, entitled "Germs of Rheumatism," which are absolutely free of charge to all who call or write for them.

SAYS HE IS PAT CROWE, DENIES HE ENDED LIFE

Man in New York Challenges Buffalo Police Identification of Suicide's Body.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—New York and Buffalo police differed today as to whether Pat Crowe was dead or alive.
A suicide in Buffalo was identified by police of that city yesterday as the one-time train robber and kidnaper of Edward Cuddey Jr., but early today a man who said he was Crowe appeared at New York police headquarters.
He said he had seen the story of the suicide in the newspapers and wanted to relieve the anxiety of his son and daughter in Chicago.
He said he had been living at a Bowery hotel for several months and before that had been connected with a magazine in Hartford, Conn., for which he had been writing articles against prohibition.
New York police said Crowe has been a character along the Bowery for some time and had been arrested the last time for panhandling in the Subway. They verified their identification by a picture sent here from Chicago in 1928 when he was arrested there for robbery. Although he had a mustache when the picture was taken, they said there was no doubt that the man was Crowe.
The Buffalo police, however, persisted in the belief that the body of the suicide was that of Crowe. The identification was first made by two detectives who said they arrested him four years ago for drunkenness. After the identification, Chief of Detectives Riordan of Buffalo recalled that Crowe always wore felt in his shoes due to weak ankles. Making a second investigation of the body in the morgue he found the shoes of the victim were lined with felt.
The body of the suicide, with a bullet through it, was found in the rear of the United States customs office. All marks of identification had been removed from the clothing.
THREE COAL AND IRON POLICE HELD FOR KILLING OF MINER Coroner's Jury Recommends Charge of Murder Against Pennsylvania Officers.
By the Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 19.—W. J. Lyster, Harold Watts and Frank Slapakis, coal and iron policemen, today were held responsible by a Coroner's jury for the killing of John Bercoveskie, Santiago miner, who was beaten to death in the coal and iron police barracks at Imperial Feb. 10. The jury recommended that the three be held on charges of murder to await action of the grand jury. The jury also recommended that "as those held are coal and iron police, a complete investigation be made of the conditions governing the coal and iron police system."
The accused men were recommitted to jail by Coroner W. J. McGregor, without the privilege of bail. As they were being led back to their cells, Lyster, acting as spokesman, said: "They had their say today. This was their day. We'll have our say later. Then it will be our day."
ROSE PASTOR STOKES FREED OF DISORDERLY CONDUCT Radical, Arrested for Picketing, Must Appear in Court for Parading 9-Year-Old Boy.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes yesterday was freed in Magistrate's Court of a charge of disorderly conduct, but was ordered to appear today for parading in a picket line a 9-year-old boy, who, authorities said, should have been in school.
Mrs. Stokes, who was divorced by James Graham Phelps Stokes, philanthropist, more than three years ago, was arrested in the garment center with Adolph Wolff, another well-known radical, and 228 other persons charged with disorderly conduct in mass picketing.
In Jefferson Market Court, Mrs. Stokes said the boy, Jerry Romain, was her son "by every right but birth," but the boy was taken in charge by the Children's Society. The boy, who was walking between Wolff and Mrs. Stokes in the picket line, is educated by home tutor, Mrs. Stokes said.

Wolff and 27 other persons were discharged on disorderly conduct charges, and 200 received suspended sentences.

DO YOU SEE "YELLOW MASK"?

Pittsburgh Man Did Not Buy After Day—Then Tried This

Let Vincent P. Day tell you how he got such white, handsome teeth.

"Always," he says, "my teeth had a yellowish cast. I tried this tooth paste and that—even powder. But no improvement. I had practically made up my mind that my teeth were naturally a creamy yellow. Then I heard told me about ORPHOS TOOTH PASTE. I got a tube. After a few 'washings' my teeth became as white as porcelain."

ORPHOS is the new, modern dental formula for removing "Yellow Mask." Works amazingly quick—and never fails to whiten. The secret is composed of "Tri-Calcium Phosphate," tender gums, too. Get a tube and try it. Just ask your nearest drug or department store.

Miss Lanier said Beer left the child in her care Sunday night, promising to return for it in a short time. Statement Considered Notable Contribution to Accord With U. S.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—In official circles here and in the London newspapers there is an increasing feeling that Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador to the United States, had made a real contribution to Anglo-American accord by his recent statement in Washington disclosing that the British Government was trying to find a new method of solving the naval disarmament puzzle.

It was pointed out authoritatively, however, that neither the Ambassador's statement nor the preceding intimations of British policy sent from London indicated that an actual conference would be held prior to the British general election. This election probably will come in May, and it was said that only those who thought diplomacy could be conducted with the speed of a stock exchange would expect such a concrete result so speedily.

Officials reiterated to the Associated Press that they were continuing their study of the problem. They emphasized that there were many difficulties involved, but also made plain their realization that the difficulties urgently called for solution as soon as possible.

No Denial of Accuracy.

Although it became necessary, in order to avoid Parliamentary criticism, for the Foreign Office to issue a statement in London as a sequel to that given out by Howard in Washington, there was no denial either by officials or by the press of the accuracy of the Ambassador's announcement. Some newspapers, more or less hostile to the Conservative Cabinet, interpreted the Foreign Office document as a snub to Howard, but this view did not prevail in official quarters.

The only regret heard in Downing street was that the effort which Great Britain plans to make in order to reach an armament agreement with America should be criticized or become in any way confused merely because the first announcement of it was not made in London.

No Discrepancy in Views.

The Daily Telegraph, widely known for the quality of its diplomatic news, said there was no discrepancy as between Howard's explanations to the American press and the Foreign Office communiqué of Saturday. The paper said it was doubtful whether there really was any need for the Foreign Office statement, adding:

"That statement does no more than reaffirm the stiffness of official phraseology, the substance of what our Ambassador stated in more cordial and hopeful language."

With the general election approaching, the opposition pressed upon the incident as an occasion for criticizing the Foreign Office. Both the Star and the Standard took this line. The latter said that Ambassador Howard possibly exceeded his instructions, but it was not believable that a man of his experience could have given out such a statement except under some sort of direction. The Star acknowledged that the Ambassador had "clearly struck a vibrant chord in American public feeling."

$8,000,000 BEQUEST TO NORTHWESTERN U.

Fund Left by M. H. Wilson of Evanston, Ill., for Undergraduate School.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—An $8,000,000 endowment fund for Northwestern University is established by the will of the late Milton H. Wilson of Evanston, clothing manufacturer, who died Feb. 19 at Pasadena, Cal. Three other bequests of $100,000 each were made to Methodist Episcopal Church organizations from the $10,000,000 estate.

Mr. Wilson's will was filed yesterday in Probate court here. The endowment fund, which is to bear his name, was left to the university of which he had long been a trustee. As memorials to his wife, Wilson bequeathed three funds of $100,000 each to the Western Methodist Hospital, here, the Superannuated Relief Association of the Methodist Episcopal Rock River Conference in Illinois and the Methodist Episcopal Old People's Home. The funds will be known as Emma B. Wilson endowments.

The $8,000,000 bequest to Northwestern is the institution's largest single endowment. Wilson's previous gifts to the university totaled $1,500,000, according to Robert W. Campbell, president of the board of trustees.

"Mr. Wilson's gift," he said, "was made with the expressed wish that the income be used to build up the most outstanding undergraduate school in the West. He appreciated the importance of the college of liberal arts in relation to a well-rounded plan for future expansion in the university as a whole."

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—A gift of $1,000,000 to New York University by Mr. and Mrs. Percy S. Straus philanthropists, is announced by Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown. The money is to be placed in a fund to be known as the Edith A. and Percy S. Straus fund, the income to be used at the discretion of the university.

Straus is chairman of the Executive Committee of the university's centennial fund, which is attempting to raise $73,000,000 for an endowment to be completed in 1931. He is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1897.

BILLS TO LIMIT RATE BASIS OF UTILITIES

Missouri House Gets Proposals to Restrict Valuation of Properties.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 19.—Two series of bills designed to limit the valuations that may be used by the Public Service Commission for the property of public utility companies in establishing a basis of rate making were introduced in the House yesterday afternoon.

Representative C. E. Hastings of Joplin introduced one series of bills, amending each of the sections of the Public Service Commission law relative to valuation of different classes of utilities, to provide that no valuation for rate making shall exceed the amount at which the company's property is assessed for taxation, plus 10 per cent.

Under Hastings' bill, no utility could obtain a valuation, as a basis of rates, that was more than 10 per cent in excess of the assessment upon which it pays taxes. The other series of bills, introduced by Representative E. L. Britain of Greene County, J. L. Kennedy of Cooper County, and Sid Rollins of Boone County, would exclude going value and other intangible elements from valuation and restrict the valuation to the physical property that is used in the service of the public.

Civil War Veteran Dies. The funeral of Henry Hayes Bivert Sr., 49 years old, Civil War veteran and pioneer resident of Belleville, will be held tomorrow afternoon under the auspices of the A. R. The Spanish-American War Veterans also will attend. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nora Bivert, and three daughters.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 19.—Two series of bills designed to limit the valuations that may be used by the Public Service Commission for the property of public utility companies in establishing a basis of rate making were introduced in the House yesterday afternoon.

Representative C. E. Hastings of Joplin introduced one series of bills, amending each of the sections of the Public Service Commission law relative to valuation of different classes of utilities, to provide that no valuation for rate making shall exceed the amount at which the company's property is assessed for taxation, plus 10 per cent.

Under Hastings' bill, no utility could obtain a valuation, as a basis of rates, that was more than 10 per cent in excess of the assessment upon which it pays taxes. The other series of bills, introduced by Representative E. L. Britain of Greene County, J. L. Kennedy of Cooper County, and Sid Rollins of Boone County, would exclude going value and other intangible elements from valuation and restrict the valuation to the physical property that is used in the service of the public.

Civil War Veteran Dies. The funeral of Henry Hayes Bivert Sr., 49 years old, Civil War veteran and pioneer resident of Belleville, will be held tomorrow afternoon under the auspices of the A. R. The Spanish-American War Veterans also will attend. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nora Bivert, and three daughters.

STILLWATER, Ok., Feb. 18.—By decisively beating the Oklahoma Aggies, 52 to 22, here last night, Washington University of St. Louis clinched its right to the basketball championship of the reorganized Missouri Valley Conference. It was the Bears' seventh victory and the final M. V. game of the season.

Washington had previously defeated Grinnell College, Drake University and Creighton University; the latter its most highly touted and respected opponent. The victory over the Oklahoma Aggies, the second of the season, was expected and merely sealed the championship with a little tighter.

With the Oklahoma University game to be played at Norman tonight in mind, Coach Don White used all the men he brought along on the trip. Constance, Wentz, Meyer, Kurtz and Duncan, his best players, started the game, but Lohnding, Christensen, Houghton and Jablonsky were all sent in. The Sooners expect to give Washington a real thrashing and hope to avenge the defeat handed them earlier in the season.

Meyer Star of Contest. It was "Mooses" Meyer, elongated center, who gave Washington victory over the Aggies. In addition to getting the tip-off from Choate every time, he was the center of the offensive play and scored 10 field goals and three free throws. Meyer never seemed in a hurry and committed but two personal fouls in holding Choate to the field goals, but he was easily the outstanding star on the floor. Most of his shots were from the four line.

Constance, left forward, was not far behind his teammate in effective floor work, but his net result of points was not quite as high. He grabbed six field goals and four free throws for a total of 13 points. Constance was especially effective in following up shots. He was invariably in and on to the ball after it had been shot, whether it was the Washington or Aggie backboard.

Bears Set a Record. Washington set what is believed to be a record for the A. and M. court when they made eight free throws out of eight attempts. Wentz and Meyer made three each and Constance and Christensen contributed one each. The Aggies, on the other hand, missed 14 of 22 shots.

The most brilliant playing of the game came in the first two minutes of the second half. Although leading by a 24 to 4 margin at the half, the Bears were in a bit of a lull, and the Aggies almost half their points and constituted their sole offensive threat. Most of his scoring was done in the closing minutes of play.

Ban Johnson Tells Why He Refused To Attend the 1924 World Series

BAN JOHNSON'S OWN STORY

CHAPTER XIII.

The O'Connell-Dolan Affair.

LAW MAKERS throughout the country took cognizance of the world series scandal of 1919 and the effects were as far reaching, perhaps, as they might have been if we had obtained convictions in court.

It was recognized that there were loop holes through which plotters against the honesty of sport could escape and in more than a dozen states there was legislation, providing punishment for persons who conspired to arrange crooked baseball games or other sporting events.

However, even with the memory of the 1919 expose fresh in the public mind, there was a conspiracy in the fall of 1924 which resulted in two men being barred from baseball for life. More should have been done to find the real guilty persons in the plot and because I thought the affair had been handled improperly, I declined to attend the world series that year.

It was the only title struggle that I missed during my tenure of office as president of the American League and I felt very strongly about it.

I advocated calling off the series entirely, or as an alternative, the substitution of the National League team which finished second, because I thought that would have been the best way of obtaining the public's confidence. I still feel that such should have been the procedure.

On Saturday, Sept. 27, 1924, Jimmy O'Connell, outfielder of the New York Nationals, approached Helms Sand, shortstop of the Philadelphia nine, and offered him $500 to throw the game that day. The Giants were within six victories of the pennant and were engaged in a spirited race with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Sand refused to entertain the proposition at all and immediately reported the incident to his manager, Arthur Fletcher. The game was played on its merits and the Giants won. That evening Fletcher preferred charges with Commissioner Landis against O'Connell.

The Commissioner obtained a confession from O'Connell, in which the young outfielder, who had been a mere bench-warmer much of the season, implicated Albert "Cory" Dolan, a coach, and several other players, naming Ross Young, Frank Fries and George Kelly.

Dolan's testimony in his own behalf was not satisfactory and he and O'Connell were declared ineligible for further competition in organized baseball.

Other players named by O'Connell were held guiltless by the Commissioner and the series, despite many protests from Nationals as well as American League men, was played.

Enter Barney Dreyfus.

It was not alone in my contention that the best interests of the game demanded that the series be called off, but Dr. Dreyfus, publisher of the club, in a statement published in the press, was quoted as saying that in his opinion calling off the series would not be going too far to get the right result. He pointed out that O'Connell and Dolan were being made the "goats" in the affair, while evidence pointed to the belief that there must have been other persons who at least had guilty knowledge, as charged by O'Connell in his confession to the Commissioner.

Arguments against calling off the series were that it would deprive the players and the magnates of the public would think the situation more serious than it really was. However, in my opinion, the effect was contrary to what I felt. My policy always has been to gain the respect and confidence of the public and I believed then and still believe that the loss of all the receipts of that series would have been a small price to pay for the public confidence that calling off the series would have inspired.

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, which was the American League representative in the series, resented my suggestion. O'Connell deserved whatever punishment was meted out to him. The mistake ruined his career. A short time after he had offered the $500 to Sand, O'Connell was forced to accept employment as a storekeeper in California. He was barred forever from baseball which had been his employment, and funds and a substantial stake when his playing days were over.

Benson Explains Good Center Play

Herein is the fifty-first of a series of instructive articles on basketball, written for the Post-Dispatch by C. O. Benson, assistant coach at Washington University. Others will follow.

By C. O. BENSON

Of the Washington U. Coaching

THE above diagram illustrates one of the best center plays in basketball if the tip is definitely controlled.

In this play No. 1 tips the ball to No. 3 on No. 2's side of the floor. The center swings out of the center circle fast and goes down the center of the floor for a pass from No. 3. No. 2 carries out takes then rebounds. No. 5 is in a position to receive a pass and also to rebound.

City League Notes

By Harold Tuthill. With Roosevelt and Saldan first place, interest in this week's games in the City High School Basketball League will be centered on Beaumont's contest against Roosevelt.

Those interested in the welfare of the league took notice of the difference in the size of the crowds present at the first game between Roosevelt and Saldan.

That 18.2 billion crown has been changing hands so often we wouldn't be surprised to see it try the broad open spaces of Show-me Charley Peterson's lofty domain.

White Crossed Baseball. Coach Harry White of Saldan executed a surprise attack against the Rough Riders when he instructed Gelber instead of Joyce to advance the ball to the first line of defense.

PRINCIPAL NOTES

The A. B. C. Basketball League started off with a bang this season. The games were not scheduled until after the Christmas holidays, but all three teams were hard at work before that time.

The college varsity team is a new machine and the upper school watches with envy its development. The college got off to a slow start in its first few games, but with the constant effort of Coach Marquard the team has become a more perfect combination.

School spirit goes out to the support of the varsity upper school team. Bob Powers (captain) is an old hand at the game and though physically handicapped the first of the season, he has come around in fine style.

Next in rank is the "B" team from which material is developed for the "A" team the following year. The "B" team has done very well this season considering its opposition. They have won most of their games and are rated second in the league.

Ferguson, the leading team in the County High School League basketball race, will defend its position tonight against St. Charles.

The game will be played at Ferguson, starting at 8 p. m. Ritenour will play at Normandy in the other league game, while non-league contests are Central at St. Louis University High and Cleveland at Principia Junior College.

It is the first time in many years that a Ferguson team leads any of the teams in the county.

The lineup which will oppose St. Charles, consisting of Capt. Alex Burgess and Joel Hall, forwards; Bill Pixley, center, and John May and Gene Slater, guards, is composed entirely of veterans.

Although St. Charles was defeated by the leaders, 23 to 17, in the first game of the season, St. Charles' victory over University City last week makes it a threat to upset the Ferguson quintet.

The probable lineups: St. Charles, Burgess, R. F., Bacon, Hall, L. F., Towers, Pixley, R. G., Burke, May, R. G., Scholle, Slater, L. G., Johnson.

Fumbled Ball Dead at Point Of Recovery According to New Rule Adopted by Law Doctors

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The well-known crime of fumbling has been reduced from a felony to a mere misdemeanor in the statute books of football.

The National Football Rules Committee announced yesterday adoption of a new provision of more than ordinary import which makes a fumbled ball recovered by the defensive side dead at the point of recovery.

Possession of the ball under such circumstances will still be lost by the fumbling team, but gone will be the heartache of seeing an opportunist ball hawk on the other side take, through scoop, up the oval and scamper through a clear field to a touchdown.

In announcing the change the committee stated it took into consideration "the fact that in the great majority of cases the actual fumble of the ball is the error of a single player and not the fault of the team as a whole; also the fact that loss of the ball by reason of a fumble is generally considered to be equivalent to the loss of about 40 yards, namely the distance lost by the fumble itself plus the average distance of a punt—say 35 yards, the opportunity for which has been lost by reason of the fumble."

Does Not Apply to Passes. This rule will not apply in case of forward passes nor to backward passes which are intercepted before striking the ground, nor will it apply to blocked kicks which will be played as hitherto, it was emphasized.

Of the four rules changes, all important, which were announced as the result of a secret session of the gridiron legislators in the seaside seclusion of Abeecon, N. J., last Friday, Saturday and Sunday, a second similarly barred the door against some of the sad consequences of a fumbled kick, where, as the rules of 1925 provided that when a player fumbles in the act of receiving a punt, the ball is dead at the point of recovery by the opposing team, the revised code lists all kinds of booted balls in the same category—kickoffs, placements and drop-kicks as well as punts. By a third rule, which came as a complete surprise to most outsiders, the position from which the try for point after touchdown is to be made was moved from the three to the two-yard-line in the hope that the try for the extra point may more often constitute a triple threat play. A line play or a pass may now be expected as well as the conventional kick, in the rule-makers' opinion.

Deciding that restrictions upon the use of the "screened" forward pass which were adopted in 1928 were not sufficient, the committee's fourth decision amplifies the rule to provide that no player of a side attempting a forward pass "who has crossed the line of scrimmage shall either before or after the pass have been made interfere with an opponent until the ball has been touched except in an actual attempt to catch the ball. Except on passes completed behind the line of scrimmage such players are ineligible shall be penalized for interference, if they in any way obstruct the right of way of defensive players."

The only other legislation was the adoption of a provision under which secondary schools may be permitted "a more liberal practice in the matter of substitutions than that allowed under the standard rules" by mutual agreement of the teams.

BRASSIL

"PA" STRIBLING STATES HE WILL OBJECT TO USE OF BOSTON MAN

By the Associated Press.
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 18.—The ballyhoo or not the ballyhoo seemed to be the question today as the rumblings of a war over referees broke the calm and beauty of Sockland-by-the-Sea, newest province of flusterfluffs where fighters and their cohorts rub elbows with the cream of society.

The opinion was general that Johnny Brassil, 42-year-old veteran of New England rings, would referee the fracas on Feb. 27 between Jack Sharkey, the silent sailor, and Young Stribling, clean-cut Georgian. And everyone seems certain of this despite "Pa" Stribling's outraged declaration that he didn't raise his boy to fight Boston heavyweights with a Boston referee in the same ring.

All the shooting, whether real or feigned, hinges on the interpretations of the contracts the two fighters hold directly with Madison Square Garden Corporation and indirectly with Jack Dempsey, the former champion, who is learning about fight promotion from two contenders for his old crown, Johnny Buckley, plump little manager of the Bostonian, says the issue is settled by the naming of Brassil and Jack Sheehan, Boston referee, to the disputed post, by the Massachusetts State Athletic Commission. "Pa" Stribling says the fight has just begun.

Regardless of the referee controversy that has not ruffled a hair of Dempsey's sleek head, nor given him visible signs of worry, the battle has been given its final ballyhoo blast toward success. There is close to $250,000 in cash receipts already in the box office, a huge pile of reservations, and interest growing daily. The city already is packed to the saturation point with visitors. The best guess as to the ultimate "gate" ranges between $250,000 and $400,000.

This Beats Taking Soda for Sour Stomach

"For quite some time I used soda for gas and sour stomach. Then I decided to try Adierika and found it far better than soda."—Ed McNeill.

The simple mixture of glycerin, buckthorn bark, etc. (known as Adierika), has a most surprising DOUGHERTY action. It acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel (most medicines act on lower bowel only) and removes foul matter that poisoned the system for months. It clears GAS, and soothes from the stomach and bowels, bringing INSTANT relief from stomach trouble. And in addition, Adierika removes metabolic poisons which cause neuritis and rheumatism.

Dempsey, Not Fighters, Is Big Drawing Card for Miami Bout, Says Leonard

By Benny Leonard.
Retired Lightweight Champion.
(Copyright, 1929.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The most interesting thing about the Stribling-Sharkey fight in Miami Beach is Jack Dempsey. Of course, I don't mean to refer to Jack as a "thing," but he certainly is the whole show so far as most of the fight fans are concerned.

Just what effect on him is this fight going to have? Not so much the fight itself, but his part in it. Believe me, Dempsey is having the hardest work of any heavyweight battlers connected with the affair. So far as Stribling and Sharkey are concerned, all they have to do is a couple of hours work every day. But Dempsey has a harder job than that. He has to work every day, all day, and he has to worry all day and all night.

A First Impression.
When this match in Florida was first made, I didn't think there was a chance of it being a success. But from what Mike Jacobs tells me, I now believe it will. Jacobs knows more about the financial condition of any fight held under the jurisdiction of Madison Square Garden than any other man. He has an official connection with the Garden, and has pretty much control of the ticket sales. He assures me the fight will make money for the promoters.

Nevertheless when I saw Jack Dempsey in Florida not long ago, he certainly showed signs of wear and tear from the promotion of the fight. I have noticed that usually when a fighter—especially a fighter who has been at the top—begins to take on real serious business problems and worries, he rapidly loses the old snap and fighting instinct.

Because of this I believe that if

The status of Wally Pipp, the Reds' first baseman and former Yankee star, is expected to be determined today at a conference with Joe Carr, president of the Columbus American Association club, owned by Cincinnati. The Reds propose to use George Kelly at first this season and Wally may be offered a place on the Columbus team.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 19.—Amendment of the State law for regulation of boxing bouts, to place wrestling under the supervision of the Missouri Athletic Commission in the same manner as it now supervises boxing, is provided in a bill introduced in the House yesterday by eight Representatives.

If the amendment is adopted all wrestling bouts in the State will be subject to the same control as boxing bouts, under the existing boxing control law. PIVAC TO MEET INDIANAPOLIS HEAVY MONDAY

The preliminary program for next Monday night's New Coliseum boxing show, on which Benny Bass and Davey Abad are the headliners, was completed today by Matchmaker Jack Tippett, who announced a heavyweight event between Tom Pivac of this city and Billy Meyers of Indianapolis, and a lightweight contest in which Leo Patterson, the veteran A. E. F. champion, meets Ralph Long, a dusky local rival. Both bouts are carded for six rounds.

Pivac will meet a rugged and experienced mauler in Meyers, a fighter who has given a good account of himself in bouts with such fighters as Les Marriner, Mike Mandell, Joe Lohman and Roy Wallace. Decisions over Al Walters and Frankie Jones, an eight-round draw with Mike Wallace, and a kayo victory over Buck Cornet are other impressive achievements credited to the Indianapolis heavyweight.

Local fans have observed marked improvement in Pivac's boxing in recent bouts. The hefty Croatian mauler kayoed Pat McCarthy of Terre Haute in the first round of a bout last Friday night at the South Broadway, chalked up his third knockout victory of the winter season. Charley Pond and Jerry Sullivan were stopped by Pivac in previous local encounters.

The match between Patterson and Long is a return engagement. These Negro lightweights fought a rousing four-round draw in a special bout at the Westwood Country Club several weeks ago.

Two other preliminaries will feature Paul Steadman, local featherweight, and Mike Esposito of New York; Jimmy Reed and Frank Powers, local middleweights, in a pair of 10-round contests. Ray Alfano of East St. Louis, and Buddy Schlereth of this city, have signed articles for a featherweight event listed as a reserve match in case the regular program is curtailed by any emergency.

Tippett is anticipating the arrival of Abad in St. Louis today while Bass is expected to report here Friday.

DUTCH MASTERS

SMOKE TALKS

by the DUTCH MASTERS

The best political argument we heard during the late presidential campaign was pulled by Art Thompson. "Whichever party wins," said the philosophical Art, "I'll still be able to get a Dutch Masters for a dime."

When luck breaks against him the wise man simply sits down for a few minutes and makes the air blue. No, don't get us wrong. We mean blue with smoke from a good Dutch Masters.

A gentleman, who signs himself "A Dutch Masters Smoker," sends the following tribute to cigars and those who smoke them:

When there's trouble in the office,
Or a breakdown in the shop,
When every gear is slipping,
And the wheels of progress stop—
Who gets the S O S to come
And straighten out the place?
Some calm, unruffled fellow
With a cigar in his face.

Things haven't changed so much. In the old days, heap big chiefs discussed the affairs of their tribes over the peace pipe. These days when chiefs of the American business world get together there's always a box of good cigars on the table.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Discovery Reduces It Quick and Easy Spells Disappear

Thousands who have dizzy spells, nervousness, shortness of breath, pains in the head and limbs, have been told by insurance examiners that they have high blood pressure. The serious results are well enough known to check it at once. High blood pressure caused by overeating heart often brings on serious consequences.

Konjola reduces high blood pressure. Often one bottle will do it. Many have so testified. It is a doctor's prescription and is much used by women at the changing time of life who usually have blood pressure over normal. Ask for Norma at Wilson Drug Stores or any drug store.

KONJOLA PROVED A BLESSING SAYS ST. LOUIS LADY

"For the First Time in Five Years I Am Free of Stomach and Kidney Trouble," She Said.

"Konjola was the medicine I should have had in the first place!" In this expression every sufferer will find the answer to their long and fruitless search for relief. It would be impossible to count the number of times that this expression

MRS. SOPHIE ABBAS

has been said to the Konjola Man, who is at the Walgreen Drug Store, 615 Olive Street, St. Louis, by his many callers throughout each day. The Konjola Man has been sent to this city for the express purpose of aiding all those who would have glorious health—he is telling what Konjola, the master medicine is doing and will do for you—for everyone. It is not his primary purpose to sell Konjola and those who call on him are under no obligation. It is health that he is dealing out—not promises; it is results that everyone in poor health wants, not claims. Make up your mind today to see the Konjola Man and learn of Konjola's exceptional merits. Every day of delay simply means another day of needless suffering. Hundreds of St. Louis people have gratefully indicated Konjola and just the other day Mrs. Sophie Abbas, 2902 South Main, this city, told of her experience with Konjola. Mrs. Abbas said to the Konjola Man:

"Konjola proved a blessing to me and for the first time in five years I am free of stomach and kidney troubles—all through the merits of this new and master medicine. During the time I was in poor health I was unable to enjoy or relish a meal. I had no desire to eat anything, knowing the intense misery I would endure afterward. Gas formed in large amounts and pressed against my heart until it palpitated wildly. Due to the poisons from my kidneys I was afflicted with severe headaches, pains and swelling of my ankles. Dizzy spells assailed me and headaches made my head feel as though a thousand needles were sticking in it. Medicines were of no avail; treatments failed to benefit me. I felt that I was doomed to a life of suffering.

"But all that was changed by a brief treatment of Konjola. I shall never forget, or ever stop praising, this wonderful medicine. I hardly needed time to perform such amazing things—that was why I was so astounded. Almost before I knew what was happening I began to feel better—found that I had greater pep and energy and strength. I tried doing things that I never dared to do before and to my delight they succeeded perfectly. All traces of gas vanished. My kidneys were strengthened and regulated next and when I was free of pains and swelling. Headaches and dizzy spells were driven from my life and at last, I realized that my health had been restored. What a glorious thing it was—how happy I am and how I praise Konjola, the medicine that has made life worth living again."

This is not an exceptional case. Konjola has thousands of them to the credit. This medicine contains no alcohol, heart-depressing drugs or nerve-deadening chemicals. It is so safe that no hazardous ingredients in Konjola are a medicine that no one might have compounded in her own laboratory.

The Konjola Man is at the Walgreen Drug Store, 615 Olive Street, St. Louis, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine. Konjola is sold also at the Walgreen store in East St. Louis.

AMERICAN LEGION HEAD TELLS OF ITS PROGRAM

Paul V. McNutt Addresses Conference of Post Commanders at Hotel Jefferson.

The need for the liberalization of the provisions and specifications of the United States Veterans' Bureau for the relief of disabled veterans was emphasized by Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the American Legion, in an address before a conference of post commanders at Hotel Jefferson last night.

He outlined the Legion program for this year, dividing it into four objectives: Rehabilitation, child welfare, Americanism and national defense.

"The Legion's first duty," he said, "is to see that proper care and rehabilitation, which a grateful Government has provided, are given to our disabled veterans."

"We are seeing today a re-enactment of the history of bureaucracy. Bureaus are being established for the purpose of bringing relief. They have become hardened because of the number of cases they see. Today there are many men with disabilities caused by their war service, but who cannot prove that connection. We can say to Congress that the provisions must be so liberalized that those men shall receive the relief to which they are entitled."

The child welfare program, McNutt said, includes an active campaign in the various states to bring about the enactment of laws providing for the education and proper maintenance of children of veterans. The Legion also proposes, he announced, to take up emergency relief in co-operation with the Red Cross, to undertake a campaign for child safety and a campaign for the education of adult foreign-born, and to sponsor a universal service act as a step in legislative preparedness.

McNutt also attended the opening of the World War Veterans' bowling tournament, after which he departed for Joplin, Mo. His home is at Bloomington, Ind.

BOY SCOUTS WILL ASSEMBLE FULL-SIZED PLANE AT CIRCUS

Scale Model of Graf Zeppelin to be Flown Length of Building at Annual Event.

A full-sized Curtiss-Robin cabin monoplane will be assembled on the floor of the arena as a feature of the annual Boy Scout Circus at the Coliseum Friday and Saturday evenings. Troop No. 2 has made a special study of aeronautics. E. R. Langenberg, scoutmaster and a member of the Air Board of the Chamber of Commerce, will direct the work.

Another feature will be the flying of a scale model of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin, made by Langenberg's son, George, a member of Troop No. 2. The model, which weighs less than 11 ounces, will fly the length of the Coliseum under its own power.

Models of other famous aircraft, such as the army endurance plane, Question Mark, the Dawn, of Mrs. Grayson, the Golden Eagle and others will be flown. As a finale to the aviation act, one of 25 on the program depicting scout work, 100 miniature blimps will be released from the floor to rise to the roof.

FIRE AT CHICAGO ALDERMAN'S MEETING CAUSES STAMPEDE

Several of 2000 in Audience Faint and Are Carried Out—Speaker Remains Calm.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Fire which almost caused a stampede broke up the political mass meeting of Alderman William H. Fiegenbutz last night. Several of the 2000 persons in the audience fainted and were carried out by firemen but no one was injured.

Alderman Fiegenbutz is believed to have averted what might have been a serious panic. He saw smoke seeping from the walls while he was speaking. He signalled ushers to get the exits open and keep the people in a steady voice. Some members of the audience saw the smoke, however, and screamed "fire." This started the disorder which continued until firemen arrived.

Convention for St. Louis. The annual convention of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness will be held in St. Louis in October. It is announced today by Lewis H. Carris, managing director of the Society, of New York. He also announces that Dr. Harvey J. Howard, director of the Department of Ophthalmology of the Washington University Medical School, has been elected to the Advisory Board of the Society.

No More Gas In Stomach and Bowels

If you wish to be permanently relieved of gas in stomach and bowels, take Baumann's Gas Tablets, which are prepared especially for stomach gas and all bad effects resulting from gas pressure.

That empty, growing feeling at the pit of the stomach will disappear that anxious, nervous feeling with heart palpitation will vanish and you will be able to take a deep breath without discomfort.

That drowsy, sleepy feeling after dinner will be replaced by a desire for entertainment. Bloating will vanish, flanks, arms and fingers will no longer feel cold and "go to sleep" because Baumann's Gas Tablets prevent gas from interfering with the circulation. Get the genuine in the yellow package, at Wal-Mart, Walgreen Drug Co., or any other good drug store. Price $1.

French President Aids
Parisian Sales Girls

Sales girls of France owe to the French president, President Gaston Doumergue, removal of one of the principal hardships of their lives.

That was to attend outdoor booths often in temperature only a few degrees above zero.

The president noticed one cold day recently how much the saleswomen in front of one big shop were suffering. He took the matter to the cabinet, and next day signed a decree forbidding employers to employ women at outdoor booths when the temperature was at the freezing point, or below.

Women Favor and Oppose Jury Service for Women

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

THE discussion being conducted on this page of the bill now being considered by the State legislature, making women eligible for jury service, two writers to raise their voices in protest against the measure. One of these is a half-hearted, admitting to the cabinet, and next day signed a decree forbidding employers to employ women at outdoor booths when the temperature was at the freezing point, or below.

The correspondence follows:

Dear Marguerite Martyn:

I have just finished reading a few women's views on the subject of women serving on juries. You say that you are not speaking up on it as it should. I think that those who have the power will have it any way no matter what we would have to say.

But I have decided to let you know how I feel about it. I am a young mother, old enough to vote, but I don't want to vote and neither do I want to serve on a jury. I suppose you will say I am awfully old-fashioned, as I don't go in for any of this club stuff and the like. My home, my baby and my husband are all I care about and if I had to serve on a jury they are what I would be thinking about instead of the problem before me. Don't think it is because I am so young, as my mother thinks the same way and she has reached the half-century mark.

It would be all right if it could be fixed so that the women who wished to serve could do it and leave the rest of us out.

MRS. J. ROBERTS.

Dear Miss Martyn:

I note in a late issue where you ask opinions of readers on the subject of women as jurors. Except for a few days during Presidential campaigns I confine my energies wholly to home affairs. At these times I work as hard as possible, realizing that many have to be persuaded and coaxed to perform this public duty, the only way we can get the real sense of the country for or against existing conditions. These experiences have been eye-openers to me on the nature of my "sisters under the skin."

"Until I had these experiences I had always felt that the condition of the country would be greatly bettered by women receiving the ballot. I felt also that women were more inherently just, had a better conception of civic duty and were less prejudiced than men. I worked wholeheartedly for the Democratic candidates in each of our last elections. It was in the last election I was particularly disappointed in the woman voter. I had many women who knew my religion suggested that was the reason I favored the Democratic candidate. Many others told me they would not vote for him on account of his religion. I did not have one man tell me he would not vote for him because of it. So I am compelled to feel that women in politics are less consistent."

ESTELLE TAYLOR'S skin is like velvet.

Lovely Skin Essential
Says Movie Director

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—James Cruze, well-known Hollywood director, agrees with 35 other foremost movie directors that a lovely skin is the first requisite of a girl's charm.

"Few people can resist the spell of smooth lovely skin," he says.

"Every woman wants beautiful skin, but a star must have it." Estelle Taylor, famous screen and stage star, says. And like 442 of the 451 important actresses in Hollywood, she recommends Lux Toilet Soap for keeping the skin charming. This white fragrant soap is a boon to me in keeping my skin heavenly smooth," she says.

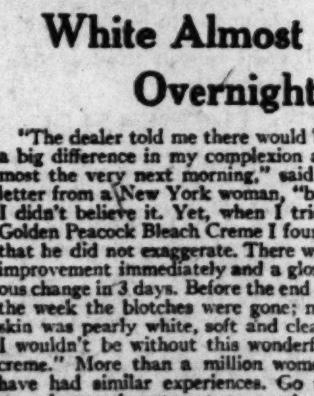

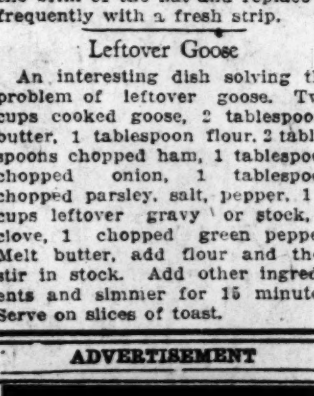

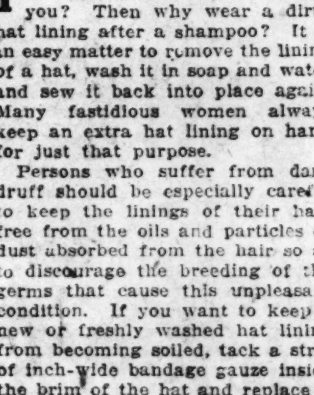

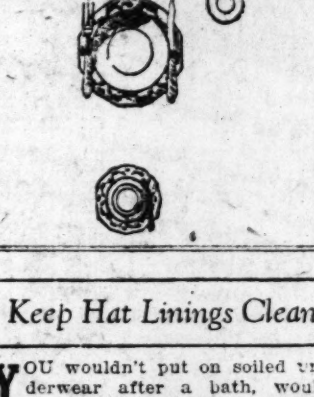

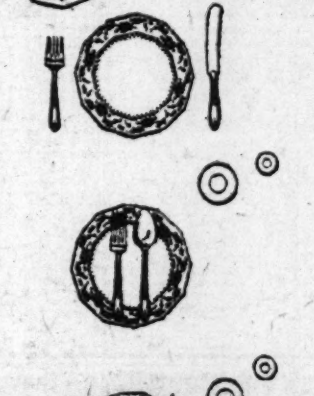

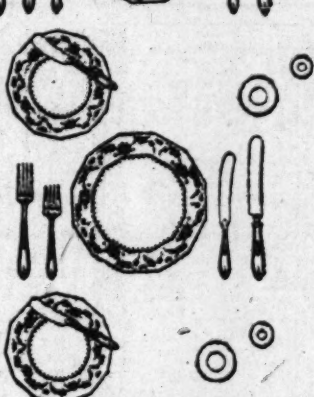

Nine out of ten screen stars depend on Lux Toilet Soap to guard their lovely skin, and it has been made the official soap in the dressing rooms of all the great Hollywood film studios.

Chicken Liver Appetizers

Cook one tablespoon chopped onion in butter until brown. Add four chicken livers and one cup stock. Simmer until livers are very tender. Then put all through a sieve. Season with salt, pepper and one teaspoon prepared mustard. Spread on salted crackers and serve as appetizers or on the plate with the salad.

TALES THAT TABLES TELL

By Alma Zaiss

WHEN you entertain at luncheon—even though it be an informal affair—it is pleasant to know the table is laid according to rules that are immune to criticism from those who are devotees of form.

When we printed an outline for formal dinner service some time ago one of our readers naively confessed the progressive diagram was so welcome that he cut it out and pasted it on the door of his wife's kitchen cabinet as a handy reminder of "What to do." So—for the other door—we proffer the following suggestions for luncheon service.

Planning the formal luncheon is of first importance. To have the right combination of food—and six courses are correct, although the entree may be omitted if desired.

The first course may consist of a fruit or seafood cocktail, hors d'oeuvres or soup served in a cup. The teaspoon at the right will serve for either fruit or soup. The fork to the left is for the entree. If this course is omitted, then the fork would be present in the setting. Service plates are removed at this point.

For the second course an entree such as chicken livers à la Brochette, eggs Benedict, or a salmon mousse would be suitable. This entree arrives on a small plate and usually requires the use of a fork only, the large knife at the left being reserved for the meat course. Butter spreaders, by the way, may be placed straight or at an angle.

A larger plate is required for the main course, which may consist of a delicate meat and vegetables, such as stuffed tongue with spinach, soufflé, chicken à la king, shoestring potatoes and new peas, lamb chops (with frilled cuffs to add a festive note), shredded green beans and potato rosette. These items should be garnished as attractively as possible.

The salad might be a very light one of crisp or romaine dressed with French dressing, a stuffed tomato or a jellied salad. We have indicated a knife for this course, which may or may not be used, although it frequently accompanies the service of hearts of lettuce, tomatoes, and other salad greens that are difficult to manage with the fork alone.

After the salad course is removed the table should be crumbed (using a small plate and napkin for the purpose). Dessert may be a Charlotte, a pudding, fresh berry tart or one of the soufflés. For the sake of balance the dessert plate is sent to the table with both fork and spoon, although only one may be used.

Finger bowls usually arrive with the dessert plate and should be lifted off and set to the left on their own plates or doilies. Nuts, bonbons and fruit may follow, and if coffee is served at the table it may be presented on a tray from which guests help themselves. Or coffee may be served in the drawing room.

Old Silks

The spool of colored silk left from dressmaking can be used for basket purposes. Silks will pull out of the materials without leaving any marks and is much more easily removed than a cotton basket. Besides, some of the noisier-colored bastings are much easier to find than the plain black and white ones.

Leftover Goose

An interesting dish solving the problem of leftover goose. Two cups cooked goose, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 2 tablespoons chopped ham, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, salt, pepper, 1½ cups leftover gravy or stock, 1 clove, 1 chopped green pepper. Melt butter, add flour and then stir in stock. Add other ingredients and simmer for 15 minutes. Serve on slices of toast.

A Winter Vegetable

CABBAGE is an important winter vegetable, and as it is one of the vegetables that are excellent when served raw, it has become a valuable food. Then, too, cabbage is a rule is easy to digest and can be served in so many palatable ways that it can be included in the menus several times a week without complaints from the family.

As a hot vegetable it is nice cooked with pork, ham or corned beef and creamed cabbage is delicious. Leftover cabbage can be fried plain or with sausage and you can make a good puree of cabbage and potato.

Raw cabbage can be shredded or chopped and served alone with French dressing or a cooked salad dressing. It is frequently used in combination with other vegetables. Then, too, either red or white cabbage can be used both for salads and cooking.

Yet, when I tried Golden Peacock Bleach Cream I found that he did not exaggerate. There was improvement immediately and a glorious change in 3 days. Before the end of the week the blotches were gone; my skin was purely white, soft and clear. I wouldn't be without this wonderful cream." More than a million women have had similar experiences. OF A Married Woman

By Helen Rowland

MIXED GRILL

MORE than one woman has had to marry a man in order to get him to "give her up" gracefully.

A comfortable love and a comfortable shoe are the only kind that interests a woman after forty.

Lots of marriages are just "running along on the rim" of a punctured romance, and an exhausted patience.

Girls who continue to hand out "free samples" of their "isses," can hardly expect a man to be carried to put in his order for a stock of them.

The hearty lunch that a business man eats downtown is his idea of "preparedness" for the reducing diet his wife will set before him, upturn.

A man is never interested in a heart that is marked "To let"; he prefers to make himself miserable by trying to squeeze into one that is marked, "No Vacancies."

To have a lot of husbands is no proof of a woman's charms. It's far more difficult to hold one husband, these days, than it is to lose half a dozen.

The man who tries to drive through traffic with one arm, and to make love with the other, is either too foolhardy to be trusted with a car or too skillful to be trusted with his heart.

THE HUMAN BODY

By Dr. Logan Clendening.

THE TREATMENT OF COLDS.

IN the first of these articles on the subject of the common cold, we said that there were only two things certain, and definitely known about colds. One was that the nature of the disease is an infection.

The second certainty about colds lies in the realm of treatment. It is that there is only one rational procedure to enforce—rest. It is an old story. The greatest weapon in the armamentarium of the physician is rest. Nature is the greatest of healers. Give her a chance by quieting all unnecessary activities.

I mean, of course, rest in bed. I remember hearing my mother ask our family practitioner years ago: "Doctor, can you cure my cold?" "Yes, I can, but you won't obey my orders," he replied. "I'll do anything you tell me to do."

"Then, if you really want your cold cured, go to bed for three days." That is good sound sense. Good sound sense, but the hardest thing to get anybody to do. People will take any sort of drug. They will swallow quantities of these substances, thoroughly convinced that some magic is going to be performed inside them. Verily, I say unto you, if ye take all the cold medicines ever devised, and go not to bed, ye are like sounding brass or tinkling cymbals. Especially like tinkling cymbals.

Nature must take its course. The cold will not be over until the inflammation has subsided. The only way to quicken the process is to put yourself at rest and let nature's forces muster to overcome the infection.

Every symptom the patient with a cold has is a plain signal to go to bed. "I'm so cold I can hardly stand up." "Honestly, this cold makes me so dizzy!" "I'm just faint with my head; I ought to lie down a while." Your muscles ache, you are tired, you long for rest, you hate to think of exerting yourself; you are chilly—why not go to bed? Wouldn't being a bed ameliorate all these symptoms?

Even 24 hours in bed at the very beginning of a cold is better than nothing. It is, in fact, better than anything. After the first 24 or 48 hours of a cold, when it has reached the productive stage of inflammation, as the pathologists say, or after it has reached the "runny" stage, as you and I say, the need for being in bed is not so imperative. It is perfectly all right after that to get up and go down to the office and explain how dreadful you've been feeling.

There are three very serious objections to the system of going to bed when you have a cold. One is that there is no hocus-pocus about it—there is no magic, no mystery. It is perfectly rational, and hence could not be expected to appeal to any large proportion of the human race. Second, it prevents the patient from explaining to everyone just exactly how bad he feels.

Third, under this treatment the patient can't go to work, and that is a pity, because there is nothing more useful and helpful around an office than a person in the first stages of a bad cold.

SMART SET HOMES IN RUINS

By Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr.

EIGHT years ago, when I was first married, 70 other young couples of my former wife's and my personal acquaintance were married during the spring and winter social season.

Within four years, 39 divorces took place, and while I was in Reno, 22 of the others came there also.

Today, there are but nine of these families still living as man and wife. And of these nine, there are to my distinct knowledge only two who are not having

Board for Reno to get a divorce, and abandoned of the fact because he believed the wreck of his home signifies a colossal failure on his part. DICK STUYVESANT married FLORENCE TRETTON in the train. He has been about his destination, and she is on the way to San Francisco to join her father.

When the train reaches Reno, DICK drops from the rear end and settles from the station like a thief who has been caught. He finds that an old friend, JOHN BERRY, affectionately known as J. B., confirmed bachelor and rake, has DICK's story of the marital crash and urges him to forget all about it and take life as he finds it.

DICK is half convinced that J. B.'s outlook on life is correct, but he knows he will not give up to such a useless existence so long as there are in the world good women like the girl he met on the train. But he does not know that, even as he is thinking this, FLORENCE is at the home of friends across the town.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"ADVANCE TO CENTER."

DICK and J. B. arose late. They had an "eye-opener," then sauntered down to the dining room for breakfast. As they passed through the lobby, a pretty, fair-haired girl, with dancing eyes set off by a dress of black and red chiffon, caught J. B.'s arm.

"Hello, there, J. B. How 'all you all?" A voice, drawing voice, with the accent of the South, "We'll show you a party tonight, J. B.—Lola Penny's graduation."

J. B. acknowledged the greeting with a careless "hello, as usual," and good-naturedly responded to the girl's obvious desire for an introduction to Dick.

Mrs. Betty Rogers of Savannah, Ga., recently arrived.

"You hear for the Cuckoo, too?" she asked J. B. suddenly.

Dick was torn between irritation and amusement. "I was none of her business why he was here! But this was Reno. It would be silly to prefer, so he nodded.

"You'll must be such an 'come to the party'!" Her smile was for Dick alone. "Don't you forget Big Boy!"

Forgetting was exactly what he intended to do. He reflected that, in the grimy, as they entered the dining room.

"Read 'em and weep," J. B. commented as they took their seats. "Look at the comic valentine on your left, Dick. Even Queen Mary would suspect that hate, and next to her—a study in pessimism—slightly over-drawing. To think that once they were all young and foolish and loved by young and foolish males, with mutual vows of eternal devotion!"

Dick smiled sourly, while his eyes continued to circle the room. If one could only look at it all as a play, a spectacle! But individuals stood out—a girl in gray, her eyes dark, with tragedy above her blatantly rouged lips; a gentle, middle-aged woman who was frankly crying; a tired shabby mother with two fretful children. Women both too young and too old to bear the distinction which had come to them, the bitterness.

"Hey, what's up?" J. B. demanded, suddenly.

Dick's face had grown white and then, abruptly, a dull red that might have been anger or embarrassment or shame. It was in fact, a mixture of all three.

A few tables away sat Felicia Brett with another girl and two young men. Evidently a very congenial, jolly party. Dick could not know that the other girl was Peg Hodge, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Tom Hodge, old friends with whom Felicia was staying; nor that the boys were J. B.'s fellow students at the University of Nevada. Dick's only thought was of Felicia's deceit.

On her way to San Francisco, she had said. And he had believed her. Had thought her innocent and honest. But she was no better than anyone else—quieter, but no better, probably, than the little Rogers person with the inviting eyes! In keeping up her faith in women! And already she had found herself a man. Probably any man would do.

Dick snapped out a word—not what one would call a nice word.

"What the hell!" J. B. demanded.

Dick laughed bitterly. "What the hell?" he repeated, but with a different inflection. All right, he was through trying to be decent. J. B. had the right idea: He looked away from Felicia, from the warm curve of gold hair sweeping her cheek, the line of rounded chin and young throat. "Let's hunt up that Rogers kid and urge him to drink," he said. "I feel like action!"

Action—Well—he'd certainly got it, he mused some 15 hours later as he stood unsteadily in what he hoped was Betty Rogers' room, looking for the bottle of Scotch she had sent him to get from her bureau. Through an open door across the hall, he could see cases of empty gin bottles piled beside a bed; a corner littered with an overflow of dirty glasses, empty syphons and ginger-ale bottles. This was a party!

The entire fourth floor of the hotel was given over to Lola Penny's merry-makers. A jazz orchestra blared from a small ballroom, and dithered couples danced in and out along the corridor—everywhere but down the elevator shaft.

One room was dedicated for the evening for the cinematographic art, and a few thousand feet of film, produced in Cuba, were being shown. Apparently, men and women were dazed glad of it—was run over and over before a delighted audience.

Down one side of the ballroom an elaborate table had been erected. It had served to hold the buffet supper, but now it resembled more than anything else the Mississippi Basin after the flood. Wreckage and chaos. Sandwiches smashed and broken, champagne-necked and broken, glasses, countless cigar stubs and crushed match boxes littered its surface and spilled over on the floor. A miniature railroad track encircled the entire table and the little engine, hauling its tiny flat cars with their cargo of mints, salted nuts and cigarettes, was still whizzing about madly. No one had remembered to turn off the switch.

Lola Penny, the hostess, sat limp and alone in a chair, her hand over her eyes, apparently out of tune with her frenzied guests, not caring that they paid no attention to her. Beyond her, in a far corner of the hall, the colored porter, a specially engaged for the evening, was taking care of guests "suddenly taken drunk," as Lola phrased it, was crooning. "Swing low, sweet chariot, a-comin' fo' to carry me home-o-ome."

Dick leaned heavily against the wall and listened. The orchestra had abruptly abandoned jazz and swung into the music of an old-fashioned square dance. A noisy rhythm, now sprightly, now slow—hectic and funeral—merry—gracious—military—

Life, thought Dick, was a dance. As he meditated, a woman, a little number of drinks can inspire upon his aphorism. A dance where one kept time to some individual rhythm, a waltz, a gavotte, a march.

"Take your partners!" boomed a voice. "Take your partners for the Scottish reel!"

He shook his head, vaguely. What was he doing here?

"Honey, take a drink, you thought you'd passed out," Betty Rogers, who had come to them, the bitterness.

"Hey, what's up?" J. B. demanded, suddenly.

Dick's face had grown white and then, abruptly, a dull red that might have been anger or embarrassment or shame. It was in fact, a mixture of all three.

A few tables away sat Felicia Brett with another girl and two young men. Evidently a very congenial, jolly party. WALL STREET
STEEL LEADS LATE UPTURN IN STOCKS

Considerable Buoyancy Develops in Last Hour With More Than Dozen Issues Up 6 to 14 Points.

RAILS LEAD EARLY QUIET STOCK TRADE

Merger Plans Filed by Two Carriers While Freight Car Loadings Show Increase.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The stock market developed considerable buoyancy in the last hour of trading today, more than a dozen issues mounting from 6 to 14 points. The trend was generally upward throughout the session, but trading was unusually dull until toward the close, when U. S. Steel was brought forward as a market leader, and bid up 4 1/2 points. Wright Aero mounted 15 points. Croley Radio 15, the Express Issues, Packard Motor, Union Tank Car, Abraham & Strauss, Lambert and Western Union 6 to 12 1/2 points. A 100 per cent stock dividend was declared by Wright Aero. Wright, Steel and Western Union closed down from top figures.

The average of 50 industrial stocks closed 2 1/2 points higher, 20 rails .7 point higher and 20 utilities .5 point better.

Total sales of 3,907,000 were the smallest for a full session this year, or, in fact, longer.

Business activity and progress in the railroad shares, based on the filing of new merger plans by the Baltimore & Ohio and Van Sweringen Systems and the increase in freight car loadings, featured the resumption Saturday of upward price movement in today's stock market.

Vote to Close Saturday.
The Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange today granted a petition of members to close the exchange Saturday following the Washington Birthday holiday. Members stated that the closing would permit them to catch up with the business in which they fell in arrears during the influenza epidemic.

The New York Stock Exchange reported today that total borrowings by members against stock collateral on Feb. 1 amounted to 9.48 per cent of the market value of all listed shares, compared with 9.54 per cent on Jan. 1. The market value of all listed shares totaled $73,600,297,412, an increase of $5,588,344,112 during the month.

Call money renewed at 6 1/2 per cent and dropped to 6, but a stiffening in rates is looked for in banking circles tomorrow. Time money and commercial paper rates continued firm. Some uneasiness still was apparent over the possibility of an increase in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate tomorrow. Wall Street looks for another large reduction in the weekly statement of brokers' loans.

Some of Gains.
Texas & Pacific and Western Pacific common and preferred, each of which advanced about 7 1/2 points, led the rally in the railroad group. Atchafalaya, New York Central, Union Pacific, Lehigh Valley, Chicago Great Western preferred, Missouri-Kansas-Texas and Pittsburgh & West Virginia, all sold 2 to 2 1/2 points higher, closing 1/2 to 2 1/2 net higher.

Strength of Packard Motors, which ran up about 10 points to 129 1/2, and Nash, which climbed more than 2 points, attracted attention. Other automotive issues were quiet.

Newman pictures for the year were registered by White Electric Oil, Union Tank Car, Croley Radio, Vulcan Defining and Inter-type.

Weekly steel trade reviews were again encouraging. Iron Age reports that "fresh advances in steel prices bear testimony to the large volume of business passing through the mills." An unfavorable development of the day was the passing of the dividend on California Petroleum.

Early trading continued relatively light in volume. Faced with the prospect of a triple holiday this week-end, and the possibility of a change in rediscount rate in the interim, many operators apparently have withdrawn from the market for the time being.

Closing stock prices with other tables and market news will be found on pages 31, 32 and 33.
